Man Found Guilty of Larceny Entered an Appeal

This morning's session of the police court proved to be a large drawn out affair. In several cases it was necessary to use interpreters.

Four Months in Jail

George Van Valkenburg was charged with the larceny of 45 pounds of leather, valued at 50 cents per pound, the property of David Ziskind. It was alleged that the defendant visited Mr. Ziskind's place of business a week ago Thursday and removed the leather from the building and afterwards tried to sell it. At the conclusion of the case Van Valkenburg was found guilty and sentenced to four months in jail. He entered an appeal and was held under $300 bonds for his appearance before the superior court.

Lieut. Martin Maher was the first witness called and he testified to having arrested the defendant in Middlesex street. Witness said he was passing through Middlesex street when he saw the defendant and another man take a bag off a wagon and carry it into a store. As a result of an investigation he said that there was leather in the bag and learned that the man was trying to sell it for $4. The defendant questioned Van Valkenburg as to where he got the leather and the latter said that he got it in Vermont about four years ago. Witness said that Major Noyes and David Ziskind had reported the loss of leather belonging to them. The defendant admitted the leather as belonging to him.

Major Edward J. Noyes, detective for the local corporations, said he had been looking for some leather that had been reported as lost and testified relative to a conversation which he had with the defendant. The defendant, witness said, claimed that he had brought the leather from "the old homestead" in Vermont.

Harry Bernstein, who conducts a second hand store in Middlesex street, testified that the defendant entered his store and tried to sell the leather for $4. David Ziskind, the man who claimed to own the leather, said that he had purchased the material with some pulleys from the Bigelow Carpet Co. and allowed it to remain in the yard adjoining his office. On September 23 he saw that the leather and bag were taken from the pulleys and immediately notified the police. When the leather was produced the witness identified it as the leather taken from his place of business.

The defendant testifying in his own behalf said he got the leather at "my old homestead" in Vermont about four years ago and when he moved to this city he brought it with him. Deputy Downey, who prosecuted the case, produced a picture which was taken from the rogues' gallery and asked the defendant if it was a likeness of him. The defendant did not think that it was necessary for him to answer his question and so informed the court, but the court told him that he was under oath and the question. Van Valkenburg then admitted that in June, 1899, he was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory after being found guilty of larceny from the person.

The defendant was ordered to serve four months in jail but appealed.

Stole Lead and Copper
James H. Heenan and Bernard Refuse were arraigned on complaints charging them with having stolen 12 pounds of lead, the property of the Hamilton Mfg. Co., yesterday. Both entered pleas of guilty. Heenan is a timekeeper for the contractor who has charge of the erection of a new building at the Hamilton and Corporation. Detective Noyes in informing the court of the case said that he and Lieut. Maher of the police department found the lead in a junk shop in Perry street. Before sentence was passed on the two men the cases of Bernard Refuse, James M. Gifford and John McCarthy, charged with the larceny of 31 pounds of copper, the property of the Hamilton corporation, was taken up. Refuse and McCarthy pleaded guilty to the complaint but Gifford entered a plea of not guilty.

Charles E. Robertson, an inspector for the company which has charge of the erection of the new Hamilton building, said that 30 feet of copper had been ripped off the top of the water wheel of the old mill. He did not know who took the copper but identified the copper produced in court as that which had been on the corporation premises.

Patrolman Lannon testified to being in a store in the vicinity of Fayette street when he heard two men remark that they had some copper to sell. The witness said that he thought Gifford was one of the men, but was not positive and when asked if he would swear that Gifford was there he answered in the negative.

Major E. J. Noyes informed the court that he was of the opinion that Gifford, who is sub-foreman, was not one of the men who stole the copper.

Lieut. Maher testified to a conversation which he had with the defendants at the police station and John Riley, who conducts a junk shop in Perry street, testified to having purchased copper from McCarthy and Refuse for which he paid $2.47.

The court, after considering the cases, found all the defendants guilty. In the case of the larceny of lead Heenan was fined $15 and Refuse $10. In the case of larceny of copper Refuse was fined $5, a fine of $15 was imposed in the case of Gifford, and McCarthy was fined $5.

Placed on Probation

James J. Lannon, who was tried before Judge Hadley in police court yesterday on a complaint charging him with breaking and entering a camp in Billerica and stealing tools, an umbrella and some canned goods, appeared before the court this morning and although the judge found the young man guilty he decided that owing to circumstances connected with the case he would place Lannon in the hands of the probation officer for one year. It appears that Lannon was accompanied by a man named O'Hara when the break was made and it is alleged that O'Hara committed the larceny, pawned the majority of the tools and then made his escape. While Judge Hadley said that Lannon was guilty in entering the place, he thought, owing to his age, that it would be better to place him on probation.

Had Unlicensed Dogs
Ernest E. Dixon and Benjamin Griffin, residents of Tewksbury, were charged with having unlicensed dogs in their possession. The case of Dixon was placed on file and Griffin was given until Monday morning to have the canine licensed.

Assault Charged

Nicholas Vlahos was charged with having assaulted Stathoula Socorrelles in Market street on September 18th, but the court, after considering the case found the defendant not guilty and ordered that he be discharged. It appears that the defendant and the husband of the complainant are dealers in fruit and confection in Market street and on the day of the alleged assault they met in the rear of the yard of the Green grammar school. Both were selling candy and fruit to the children and they got into an argument as to who had the right to be the selling and a fist encounter followed. At this point it is alleged that the Socorrelles woman tried to stop the fight between her husband Vlahos and that the latter struck her.

Drunken Offenders
Patrick Shaughnessy and James Moran, charged with being drunk, were each fined $5. There was one first offender who was fined $2 and several simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

TODAY'S HAPPENINGS IN WAR

Italian naval division bombards seaport of Prevesa and sinks Turkish torpedo boat.

Italian steamer reported ashore at Tripoli.

United States asked to look after Turkish interests in Italy.

Turkey makes another appeal to the powers to stop the war.

Italy explains to the powers why action was taken against Turkey.

SALONIKI, Turkey, Sept. 30.—The first blow in the Turco-Italian war has been struck by Italy within 24 hours of the declaration of hostilities. Italian warships under the command of the Duke of Abruzzi have bombarded the Turkish seaport of Prevesa destroying the government house there and disabling a Turkish torpedo boat. There had been no hostilities at Tripoli up to 9 o'clock this morning, but Italians are reported to have landed west of Tripoli.

The Turkish government is strengthening its military forces on the Greek and Montenegrin frontiers. The Turkish parliament has been summoned to meet immediately. Turkey has addressed another appeal to the powers, saying there is still time to prevent the evil effects of a conflict.

The impression prevails in diplomatic quarters in Berlin that the conflict will be of short duration.

ANOTHER APPEAL

ADDRESSED TO THE POWERS BY TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—The Turkish government today addressed another appeal to the powers, expressing painful surprise at Italy's action in declaring war yesterday and saying that there is still time to prevent the disastrous and evil effects of a war which nothing in the attitude of the Turkish empire justifies.

The Porte appeals to the peaceful, humanitarian and friendly sentiments of the powers to assist in convincing Italy of the conciliatory intentions of Turkey and prevent the useless shedding of blood and grief to thousands of families.

The government has asked the United States to take charge of the interests of Ottoman subjects in Italy. The German ambassador to Turkey, Baron Marschall Von Bieberstein notified the Porte this morning that Germany had assumed the protection of Italian subjects and interests in Turkey. The Italians in Turkey number 50,000.

It was reported early today that an Italian warship had gone ashore near Tripoli. Later accounts state that the crew of the Turkish torpedo boat destroyed which was sunk in the harbor of Prevesa in Epirus by an Italian cruiser yesterday escaped.

The war office announces measures to make the rule of martial law more severe because of the public excitement. Public meetings and anarchist publications are prohibited and any movement calculated to endanger public order will be immediately suppressed by force of arms. Sufficient troops have been stationed in convenient places to meet emergencies.

The Committee of Union and Progress published the following proclamation: "Italy at length has manifested her hostile designs on Tripoli. The Italian charge has handed a note to the Porte announcing the occupation of Tripoli province yesterday. The Ottoman nation prefers honor to life and indignantly repels the Italian audacity. There will be war between the two countries and our nation will employ every means against the enemy. Tripoli will be defended to the last drop of blood."

oil will courageously defend itself. The Ottoman government will expell all Italians from Turkey and Italian schools and business houses will be closed.

"Our committee will employ all its influence to cause these measures to be applied in a calm spirit toward the nation which has trodden under foot our most sacred rights. We beg the population to remain tranquil and leave to the government the duty of acting against the Italians, thus demonstrating that Ottomans are more civilized and equitable than Italians who drove their government to the present action."

"We invite all Turks to be united at this critical moment."

The principal newspapers use language of unmeasured violence against the Italians while the Ottoman people are advised to show their patriotism by the strictest boycott of Italian products and at the same time to treat the Italians in Turkey as guests.

The government has decided to strengthen its military forces on the Greek and Montenegrin frontiers.

WISE IS PARDONED REAL ESTATE SALES

Roxbury Man Freed for New York Murder

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Edward Wise of Roxbury, convicted of murder in the first degree in New York in 1909 for the death of a cab-driver named Beasley, and whose sentence to life imprisonment by Gov. Roosevelt, was yesterday pardoned by Gov. Dix and restored to full rights of citizenship.

Ex-Congressman Kellier and John A. Sullivan, who, with Miss Murray, tried for 18 years to secure Wise's pardon, and went to Albany for that purpose only last week, received the word that Wise had been released.

The charge on which Wise was convicted was for killing Beasley with an accomplice named Sweeney. Since the trial evidence has been produced to show it was Sweeney who struck the blow, Sweeney made his escape to Africa after the murder, where he is believed to have died.

Congressman Harrison of New York had been interested in the case through Congressman Kellier. Parole petitions were refused by Govs. Higgins, White and Hughes.

Wise found the prison doors of Sing Sing through the aid of him yesterday and he walked forth a free man after 12 years of confinement. He felt deeply grateful to his faithful friends. He is most insistent on his innocence.

"I was convicted of a crime I never committed," he told the parole board when he was called before them last Friday. "I had a friend and room mate in Boston. I came to New York to drum up talent for a tournament I was about to hold in Boston. I had no friends in New York. On the street I met Thomas Sweeney, whom I knew to be a tough character, but who was better than a companion at all."

"While I was with Sweeney, he got into a fight in the dance hall with Beasley. I separated them and got him out of the place. Beasley followed us down and struck Sweeney. Sweeney knocked him down and Beasley's head fell heavily to the curb. In trying to get them apart I fell, too. When I got up Sweeney was running away. I saw that Beasley was dead, and started to run."

DRANK POISON

DR. FREEMAN MISTOOK IT FOR SPRING WATER

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 30.—Dr. Frank E. Freeman, aged 62, a well-known veterinarian and expert on horses, died at his home here yesterday of poisoning by accidentally drinking an arsenic solution instead of spring water.

It appears that gallon bottles containing spring water and the solution were on the same shelf in the pantry of the Freeman residence. Shortly before 5 Thursday night when he returned from the Dexter fair, where he had been one of the judges of the race, he went to the pantry, which was lighted, poured on a glass nearly full of the arsenic solution and swallowed it before he discovered his mistake.

Two physicians were with him all night, but he died at 9:30 yesterday morning. Dr. Freeman was formerly a resident of Rockland and has lived in Bangor for two years. He leaves a wife, who was Mary A. Bailey of Bangor. He was in demand all over the state as judge of horses and off and on at the Fair Harbor horse show. He belonged to the Masons and Elks.

FIRE IN A FACTORY

Hard Battle With Blaze in Charlestown

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—A blaze that threatened to destroy the main factory building of the E. R. Whitman company, manufacturers of store fixtures and refrigerators, at 10 and 12 Dorchester street, Charlestown, started in the paint room on the first floor about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

John Gilman, an employee, who was at work in the factory, first noticed the smoke and found the blaze spreading quickly in the stock of paint.

He notified his employers and fellow workers and then ran out and sent an alarm from box 455, at Arlington avenue. Engine 32 was first at the scene and soon the entire Charlestown department was at work under direction of Dist. Chief Pope.

Within a few minutes after engine 32 got streams on the fire the flames had mounted to the third floor. The firemen cut holes in the side of the building to battle with the fire more effectively. The blaze was confined to one end of the factory.

The main building was well stocked with goods and paint, of an estimated value of $15,000. A large stock of store fixtures and refrigerators on the first floor was either burned or damaged by smoke and heat. Much of the stock on the second floor was damaged.

The damage to the stock and building is estimated by Chief Pope at $50,000.

A THREATENING FIRE

Broke Out in the Cudahy Packing Co.'s Plant

What might have proven to be a dangerous fire broke out on the third floor of the Cudahy Packing Co. in Market street, shortly before nine o'clock last night, but Keeper Murray of the police station saw the reflection of the blaze through the window and pulled in an alarm from box 12 located at the end of the Market building. The fire apparatus was soon on the scene and the blaze which broke out in a barrel of sawdust was soon extinguished.

This great store, conducted on an economical cash basis, can be likened to a public institution, benefiting the people by selling vast quantities of good standard merchandise of every description at the lowest possible prices. FROM CELL TO RICHES

Story of Convict's Reform and Success Told in Court

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The story of Thomas Curran, a convict, who under the assumed name of Doyle accumulated a considerable fortune and became a leading citizen in Montreal, where at one time it was suggested that he run for mayor, came to light yesterday in the first session of the municipal civil court before Judge Thorne in a suit by John J. O'Connor, a lawyer, against James Curran of Hudson, brother and executor under the will of Thomas Doyle, to recover for services in connection with the estate.

Mr. O'Connor said the defendant received about $1600 under the will and he thought his brother left a larger fortune than the amount inventoried, which was between $50,000 and $75,000. The attorney claimed his former client wanted him to enforce a claim for money advanced to his brother many years ago in aiding him to escape from Providence, where he was under indictment for horse stealing and other crimes.

According to Mr. O'Connor the Currans arrived in Providence in the early '80s and had more or less trouble with the wayward son, Thomas. After he had been there a short time he was forced to run away because of a highway robbery and assault on a farmer and another had committed in a neighboring town. It never became public until told in court yesterday that Curran was one of the robbers.

Curran left Rhode Island and for years nothing was heard of him. Finally his relatives received information that he was serving a 10-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for a crime committed in 1892. In reading him the sheriff badly wounded him.

While in that institution Curran learned something of machinery, which later served as the foundation for his successful career of 20 years of honesty under a new name.

Benjamin F. Butler and George J. West, the latter a leading attorney in Providence at the time, were engaged to get Curran out of Joliet. Lawyer O'Connor was told, after serving four years he was released.

He returned to Providence. Soon thefts of horses occurred and at midnight one day in 1888 Curran, with the aid of his brother, started for Montreal. Indebtedness was pending against him, charging larceny of horses, wagons, and other things, and receiving stolen goods.

Young Curran, entered Montreal under the name of Thomas Doyle. He found work at $1 a day in a factory for the manufacture of gossamer. A new form of Patterson machine was sent to the factory, but no one there could run it.

Seeing the machine standing in a corner, Curran, or Doyle, in a spare moment tried to run it. He mastered it, and when his employer happened along he demonstrated the working of it. The latter offered him $12 a week to run it, but Doyle proposed a contract for work by the piece, which was accepted.

He went to work for himself under the contract and was successful and later he married one of the factory girls who had worked for him.

Sept. 25th, at the Episcopal church in Caldwell, N. J., by the Rev. S. Thibault.

Miss Eleanor Marrin acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Allan Whitehead as best man. After the ceremony the reception was held in the ballroom of the Monmouth hotel.

The bride's present to the groom was a garnet ring and to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet, and the groom's gift to the bride was a diamond ring and to the best man a gold stickpin. After a brief honeymoon the couple will reside in Atlantic City, N. J.

PATTERSON—MONTY

THE LIQUOR SQUAD

Scored by Gloucester Aldermen

GLoucester, Sept. 30.—City Marshal Merchant and Patrolmen Foster and Brown of the liquor squad, whose alleged inactivity has created considerable discussion by the city council, were given a hearing by the mayor and council yesterday afternoon behind closed doors at the police station.

Alderman Parahue, who led in this investigation, asked the city marshal why he allowed Foster and Brown to take out warrants to raid certain places without first consulting him. Mr. Donahue wanted it distinctly understood that all orders should emanate from the marshal.

The marshal said in reply that an agreement had been made between the mayor, liquor squad and himself that they could take out warrants without consulting him. This Mayor Patch corroborated.

Alderman Donahue wanted to know why cripples had been raided so often, and others who, it is said, were derelicting the law openly had not been raided.

The mayor, who appeared to approve of the marshal's way of enforcing the law, thought the police force was doing fairly well.

Alderman Barrett said he would not vote to dismiss them at this time, but would do so January next. After they had been in consultation an hour the meeting was adjourned.

Ashton and Huntress, Architects, Lawrence.

BRADLEY BLOCK, HAMILTON WALL, CENTRAL STREET

Contracts have been awarded to C. P. Conant, the well known contractor of Lowell, for the new business block to be built on the Hamilton wall site on Central street, which was recently purchased by C. E. and W. J. Bradley of Lawrence, Mass.

The above cut shows the building as designed by the architects, Ashton & Huntress, of Lawrence, Mass. The building will be 291 feet long by 60 feet deep. There will be fifteen stores on the ground floor, eleven will be 18 feet wide, three 12 feet wide, and one 30 feet wide. The stores are so constructed that any number may be put together, making one large store. The display windows will be of the latest design with large plate glass fronts, butted together at joints and held with nickel plated holders. Over the plate glass will be transoms glazed with prism glass set in copper muntins. Each store will have metal ceilings, also gas and electric fixtures. The height of stores will vary from 13 ft. 6 in. to 15 ft. and will allow for overhead offices or gallery as tenants may require. Each store will have separate toilet room. The vestibule floors to each store will have marble mosaic floor and marble terrazzo base course for entire front. Each store will have rear entrance to the alley which will be 15 feet wide with exit on Central street, and each store will have facilities for putting goods from the alley into the basement which will be 8 feet high and well lighted. The material used on the front of the building will be a golden buff, rough cut brick with trimming of white terra cotta, also sunk panels of rough cement and red tile.

The second floor is reached by two entrances, each having a marble stairway 6 feet wide with liberal vestibules which have marble dado, tile floors, arched ceilings, and large directory cabinets.

The corridor on the second floor is 8 feet 6 inches wide and runs the entire length of building.

The space on the street side will be used for 15 stores or shops, of which six are 14x28 ft., two 25-6x23 ft., five 18x28 and two 28-6x38 ft. These last will extend from front to rear of the building. These stores will have large plate glass display windows at front, also plate glass fronts facing corridor, making an ideal store for almost any merchant or craftsman.

On the rear side of the corridor will be sixteen rooms averaging 12 ft. by 20 ft., to be used as offices; also a janitor's room, toilets for men and women, back stairway, steel hoist for safes and heavy furniture, room for meters, fireproof waste boxes, and all modern conveniences that go with an up-to-date structure.

The entire building will be finished in oak with maple floors, painted barlap dado for corridor, marble dado for stairs and vestibules, tinted walls and ceilings.

Steam heat will be supplied from the Hamilton mills corporation which insures a steady and ever ready supply at all times.

The building will be completed about April 1, 1912. Some of the stores are already leased.

TURCO-ITALIAN WAR

CABLE LINES OPEN

BUT MESSAGES ARE SUPPRESSED BY THE ITALIANS

MAITTA, Sept. 30.—The cable lines to Tripoli were opened this morning but apparently messages from there are being suppressed by the Italians, who are supposed to have taken possession of the wires.

CHARLES R. CRANE

SAYS TURKS HAVE WROUGHT DEVASTATION IN ALBANIA

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charles R. Crane, who recently returned from a trip of investigation through the Balkans, speaking of the war between Turkey and Italy, regarded the Albanian massacre the key to the entire situation. Mr. Crane branded Tourgot as a monster worthy of the bloodiest days of Abdul Hamid, who gave his soldiers orders to grant no quarter, either to men, women or children.

"Austria is a strong power in the Balkans," Mr. Crane said, "as are Italy and Russia. The devastation wrought by the Turks in Albania is shocking. The Albanians will never give up and should be of great assistance to any power at war with Turkey."

TO AID SULTAN

400,000 OTTOMAN SUBJECTS HERE LIABLE TO SERVICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Four hundred thousand citizens of the Ottoman empire living in the United States may be called upon to furnish an army of fighting men to take the field against the Italians, according to a declaration yesterday by Dgehai Bey, the Turkish consul-general, here.

"We have received no official news here of the declaration of war," the consul-general said. "Our only information on the situation is what we have seen in the newspapers today. But we are expecting to hear from the embassy at Washington at any moment."

Dgehai Bey said that there were 50,000 Turkish subjects living in New York city, or about one-eighth of the entire number of Turks in the United States.

"Do you expect to call upon them to aid in the war which Italy has declared?" he was asked.

"Such a call is entirely possible," he replied. "It would be entirely possible, not by me, but by the Ottoman embassy at Washington. I suppose I would see that my countrymen living in New York would receive it."

Dgehai Bey reached New York only Thursday night from Constantinople to assume the post of consul-general made vacant by the death of Refet Bey six months ago. The new consul-general served as first secretary of the Turkish embassy at Washington for three years, leaving there in 1906 to return to Constantinople.

GOING BACK

ALBANIANS LEAVE WORCESTER TO FIGHT OLD FOE

WORCESTER, Sept. 30.—A dozen Albanians who have been living in Worcester for nearly two years are to join the Italian army and fight against their ancient foe, the Turks, according to their own statement. The Albanians have left for New York to sail on the steamer Philadelphia for Greece, where they expect to go to Tripoli.

Ransford D. Bucknam (Bucknam Pasha), vice admiral of the Turkish navy, has relatives in Worcester. He is a native of Nova Scotia, but has lived in Maine, Michigan and this state. His wife was Miss Rose Thayer of San Francisco.

steps taken will be confined to the occupation of Tripoli, that the hostilities will be of short duration and that negotiations to fix the terms of Tripoli will be begun soon. Italy, it is stated, will endeavor to limit the hostilities. The note closes with the assurance that the steps taken are in the interests of humanity and civilization and that no effort will be spared to protect the subjects of other nations in Tripoli.

GREAT REJOICING

THROUGHOUT ITALY OVER THE DECLARATION OF WAR

ROME, Sept. 30.—The declaration of war against Turkey has been received with enthusiasm in all parts of the country. Upon the receipt of the news from the capital great processions were organized at Genoa, Milan, Bergamo, Parma, Bari, Verocelli and Perugia singing patriotic songs and acclaiming the army and navy. The government is communicating to the powers its position respecting the various phases of the conflict.

A despatch from Genoa says that the Turkish consul there has received instructions to go to Turin and withdraw the Turkish exhibits from the international exposition.

A news despatch from Tripoli says that a boarding party from the Italian squadron took possession of the Turkish transport Derna at Tripoli. The transport, which still had on board a small part of her cargo of war supplies, surrendered without resistance. The despatch adds that in the event of the bombardment of Tripoli Italian and other foreigners, including newspapermen, will be taken aboard the vessels of the Italian fleet.

PEACE SOCIETY

WANTS UNITED STATES TO TENDER FRIENDLY OFFICES

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—A telegram requesting the United States government to tender its friendly offices to Italy and Turkey with a view to preventing further hostilities was sent to Secretary of State Knox today by the officers of the Massachusetts Peace society.

The despatch follows:

"Boston, Mass., Sept. 30, 1911. Hon. Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

"In the name of humanity and out of respect for law, the Massachusetts Peace society requests the United States government to tender its friendly offices to Italy and Turkey with a view to preventing further hostilities between them and to consider the advisability of proposing reference of their differences to the Hague court of arbitration provided they cannot be adjusted by diplomacy.

SULTAN OF TURKEY

U. S. GOVERNMENT

Seeks to Indict the Jenkins Briber

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The government, through United States Attorney Wise, next week will start a sweeping grand jury investigation of the Helen Jenkins smuggling case, the chief aim of which will be to catch the "man higher up" in that sensational affair.

That this man is a New York millionaire with international financial connections is known to the Federal authorities.

He was enabled to cheat the government out of millions in the aggregate, the officials who have for months been looking into the matter are convinced, by having successfully organized and rigidly maintained through two or three administrations of the customs house a regular system of bribery or inspectors.

At least four of these inspectors are known to be still in the service. It is even asserted that a man, who for several years held the office of deputy collector, but who is not now in the service, was systematically bribed by the multi-millionaire to permit the inspectors to pass his baggage free.

It is known the government, by instituting criminal proceedings against one inspector, hopes to force him to tell all he knows about the system under which the "man higher up" cheated the treasury for so many years.

It is understood that, should he make complete revelation of the plot, the inspector will merely be dropped from the service.

It was learned at the office of United States Attorney Wise yesterday that both Allen and Collins, who were jointly indicted last August on the charge of smuggling in connection with the Jenkins jewels, but neither of whom has been arrested, will be here next Monday to plead to the indictments.

JUDGE SHERMAN

Of the Superior Court to Retire Next Monday

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Judge Edgar Sherman of the superior court, one of the best known justices in the state, will retire next Monday, an announcement to that effect being made at the court house today. The judge leaves the bench under the law which provides that a justice of the superior court having attained the age of 70 years, and having served for at least ten years, may retire from active service. Judge Sherman is 77 years of age. This will give Governor Ross another opportunity to appoint a judge of the superior court. He has two vacancies already to fill, one caused by the death of Judge Richardson and the other by the elevation of Judge DeCourcy to the supreme court.

KILLED BY TRAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Lillian Ryan, wife of Martin Ryan, an engineer on the New York Central, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by a northbound Second avenue elevated train at the Fulton street station. Her head was severed and her body trampled under the wheels of the train.

The identity of Mrs. Ryan was in doubt for some time, but was finally established by a pawn ticket showing that M. Ryan had pledged a diamond ring for $100 and had given No. 233 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street as a home address. The police learned from Charles J. Jones, owner of the house, that Martin Ryan and his wife had lived there for the last fourteen years, and Jones identified her body at the Old Ship station. Later the husband verified the identification. There is still some mystery about Mrs. Ryan's death. Passengers standing nearest her on the platform assert that she deliberately jumped to the tracks. The first that the instant saw, the body was when his train was so close that the air brake could not stop it in time. Mrs. Ryan was smartly dressed and wore diamond jewelry to the value of several thousand dollars.

TO PROPERLY TREAT OBSTINATE WRINKLES

"Particularly where wrinkles and furrows are long and deep, the massage device is apt to rub too hard and too frequently," says Dr. Lincocks. "Such treatment loosens the skin, causes muscles to sag and aggravates the wrinkled condition—just the opposite result from what she seeks."

"Better than massage, or anything else, for the most obstinate wrinkles and crows' feet, as well as the finest lines, is a formula well known in France, which American ladies may readily avail themselves of, as you will have no difficulty procuring the constituents from your druggists. It is this: One ounce powdered saffron in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face, neck and hands in this daily. The effect is really marvellous, not only as to wrinkles, but also in case of double chin and baggy cheeks. The application is cooling, soothing, tending to relieve fatigue and insomnia."

MY FACE WAS ALL BROKEN OUT

And So Disfiguring! Eruption Started with a Pimple, Came in Blotches, Causing Great Pain, Spread Rapidly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Blotches Disappeared.

"My trouble started with a pimple on my nose, which I picked, and it rapidly spread all over my face, the eruption coming in blotches, and causing great pain and disfigurement. My face was all broken out, and oh so disfiguring; being a business woman, it was dreadfully embarrassing. I was desperate, and I saw the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised, so I thought I would try them, which I did. After using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, every one of my friends noticed the improvement. I am delighted to say the blotches have all disappeared, and I am completely cured through the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I take great pleasure in recommending them to all my friends." (Signed) Miss Nellie Leverage, 315 Ninth Ave., New York City, Jan. 20, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring eruptions of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 22-page book on care and treatment of the skin and scalp, will be sent free, on application to Pottor Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 20A, Boston, Mass.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

The Big College Elevens Played Their First Games Today

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Football swung into its fall stride today on nearly every college gridiron of the country and for the next ten weeks the most attractive of college games will absorb spirited attention.

Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania sent their elevens for the first time in games with Bates, Stevens and Georgetown, while Holy Cross gave Yale the second test of the season at New Haven.

As early opponents are usually weaker teams large scores were expected today but with the advancing season the struggles will grow fiercer until the culmination is reached in what are generally championship games.

In many cases the relative strength of the different teams can only be judged by comparing scores but this year Holy Cross is expected to furnish a good line on Yale, Harvard and Princeton for the Worcester team after meeting Yale today plays the Crimson next Saturday and the Tigers.

The game at New Haven today was therefore the most important on the long schedule.

Cool, snappy weather, ideal for football, was reported from all points in the East.

HARVARD VS. BATES

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 30.—Football opened a nine weeks' engagement in the Harvard stadium today with Bates as the curtain-raiser. During the remaining eight Saturdays Harvard will meet in order Holy Cross, Williams, Amherst, Brown, Princeton at Princeton, Dartmouth and Yale.

The Harvard practice session this year has been unusually short but at the same time unusually vigorous, so that it was no crude product that lined up against Bates today.

DARTMOUTH'S GAME

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 30.—Dartmouth's opponent today in the second game of the season was the team representing the Massachusetts Agricultural college. Last year the Aggies held Dartmouth to a 6 to 0 score, but it was doubted generally today if the visitors would prove so formidable to the Hanoverites as the veteran Norwich team which played Dartmouth three days ago. Several important shifts in the Dartmouth team were made yesterday.

The probable lineup:

WILLIAMS IN GOOD SHAPE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Sept. 30.—The Williams football season opened today with a game with the Renesssaur Polytechnic Institute of Troy. The game, after two days of light work, was concluded in splendid condition and a fast game was expected. Last year Renesssaur played a 9 to 0 tie. The Trojans this year have nine veterans in their lineup.

YALE MEETS HOLY CROSS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 30.—Yale in the past has found that Holy Cross plays a good game of football and this afternoon's game is looked to with more than usual interest owing to reports that it has come here that the visiting team is of more than usual strength. Since the game with Wesleyan the Yale men have not been worked hard. The second and third string men have been given chances in scrimmaging and a lot of promising material already is in sight. The football management has given out several hundred tickets for this game to public school boys. The teams will line up as follows:

The medical authorities of Cornell university have discovered that infantile paralysis is both infectious and contagious, that it is communicated by dust from the rooms in which the patients suffering from the disease are confined, and that it gains entrance through the nose. This indicates progress towards the control of the disease, although it has hitherto puzzled the medical authorities of the world.

DIFFICULTIES CONFRONTING PRESIDENT TAFT

While President Taft claims to be wholly unversed in the politician's art, he seems to be playing the game with a fine hand all along his tour to the west. He is making the best of a bad matter.

The tariff, the trusts, the supreme court decision and further prosecutions are the questions that keep him busy explaining. The fact is, that before the supreme court gave its decision in the oil and tobacco cases, the president had taken a stand widely different. Now he has to reconcile his own views previously expressed to the decision of the court. That whole question is in a very unsettled condition despite the statements of the president to the contrary.

On the tariff issue also the president has a whole lot of explanations to make. It will be remembered that before the Payne-Aldrich bill was passed he vigorously denounced "schedule K," yet when the bill to reduce the exorbitant duty on woollens was presented to him he used the veto power to defeat it. The president endeavors to defend his inconsistency in this respect by saying that he wants to get the report of his tariff board before changing the schedule. He did not wait for the report of any such board before framing the reciprocity pact. That he considered a political necessity, and when he accused the democrats of playing politics on the wool and cotton tariffs he might as well admit that he himself had played politics on the reciprocity measure—and lost.

He is devoting all his time now to a defense of his administration and to an effort to placate the standpaters on the one hand and the insurgents on the other. Verily the president has a difficult task to perform and one in which oily speeches will hardly serve to reunite and solidify the now disrupted republican party.

THREAT OF THE BRITISH UNIONISTS

The Unionists in the north of Ireland have threatened to rebel rather than submit to a measure of home rule, but the threat has caused no alarm. When England succeeds in wiping out the bickerings of factional strife, which have long divided her people and thereby lessened their success, she will be better able to meet the other nations in the markets of the world. The people who would keep alive the feuds of bygone ages are behind the times. With the rapid transportation over land and sea, the instantaneous transmission of intelligence by telegraph with or without wires, the civilized nations are yearly being drawn into closer relations, and the nation whose people are divided against themselves is at a great disadvantage in the struggle for commercial progress and supremacy. No nation is so great that it can afford to have its people divided and fighting one another. Could the United States prosper if the north and the south still kept up the spirit of enmity that led them into deadly conflict in the Civil war? Not at all, and the same is true of every nation under the sun. England's commerce has been affected by the opposition of the peoples she has oppressed, and now that there is a prospect of overcoming this disadvantage, an insignificant faction bobs up to insist that the conditions that have existed in the past, whether for better or worse, shall be perpetuated. The statesmen of England, we believe, have decided to remove every cause of discontent so far as that is possible at home, in order that the empire may be better able to compete with the other nations in the race for commercial supremacy. The principle of majority rule strictly applied will settle many of the differences and where the minority refuses to obey it simply challenges the application of force. The same principles that make the successful man will bring success to a nation if properly applied. When a nation can rely upon its people, whether at home or abroad, to be loyal and to be deeply interested in its welfare, it has an asset that counts for success and one that the nation torn by dissensions and party strife can never enjoy. It is the first duty of a government to remove popular discontent by fair treatment and then to lead them onward towards social, industrial and commercial success.

WAR IN THE EAST

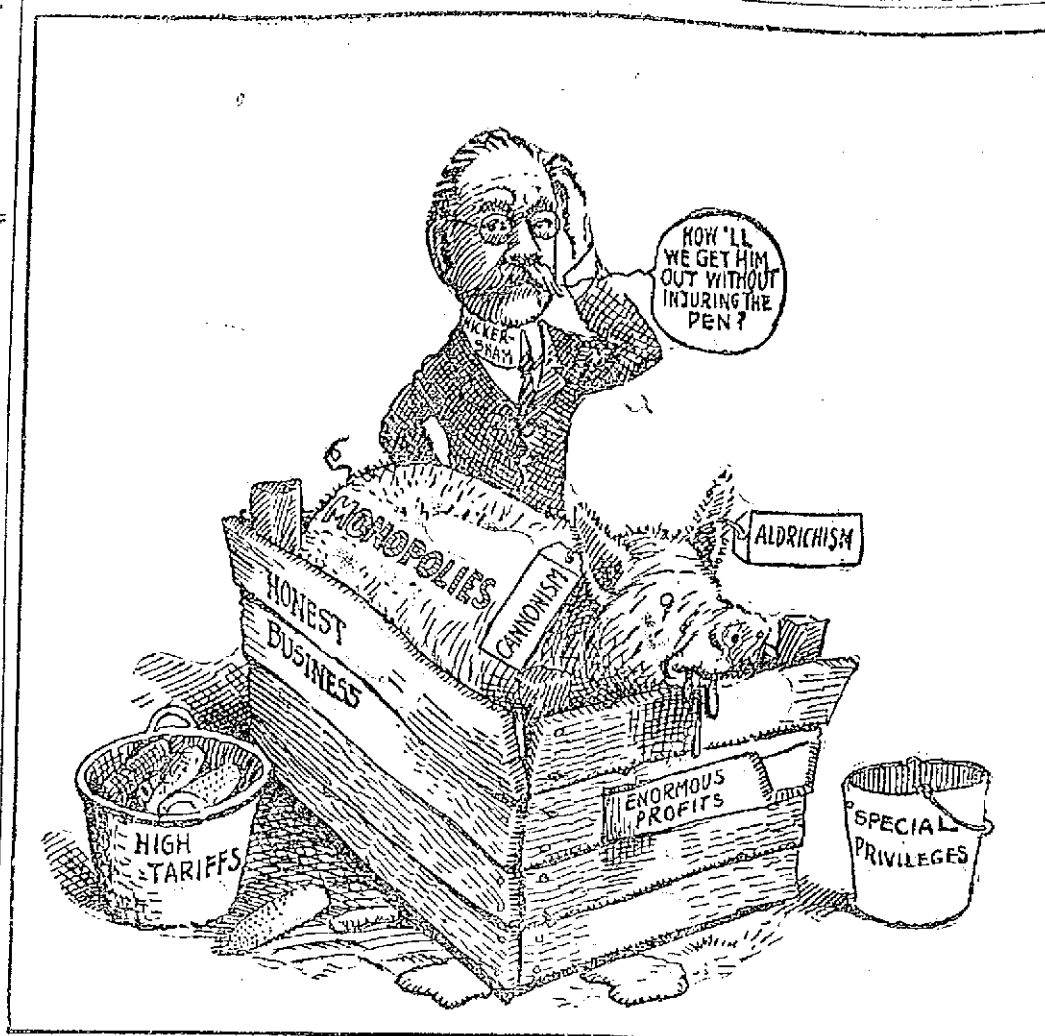

Seldom indeed has it happened that war has been declared so precipitately as by Italy in her conflict with Turkey. Although the outer world knew little or nothing of the enmity between these two nations, it has been growing more bitter for years past. The Turks are a fanatical people, and once they begin to hate another race they show a spirit of vengeance such as is rarely experienced outside the Ottoman empire.

By a treaty signed in 1878 the powers granted Italy the privilege of "peaceful penetration of Tripoli," and it is to maintain her supposed rights under this treaty and to protect her established interests in Tripoli and Cyrene that she has declared war. But if Italy felt that none of the leading powers would approve her course in declaring war with Turkey we doubt whether she would blaze away at the Turk in such rash haste. Turkey had appealed to the powers, and while not directly repudiating Italy's demands she tried to evade the main point, protested against unfriendly action and pleaded for delay.

Italy's fleet alone is feared by Turkey, as otherwise the latter has nothing to dread from a war with Italy. Turkey is a continuous source of trouble to Europe, and were it not for the international bond of jealousy known as "the balance of power," she would have been partitioned among the other powers long ago.

Just at present Turkey is not prepared to fight, but she will hereafter cherish such undying vengeance against Italians that the trouble between the two nations will be continued for years, and in many respects will partake of the fanaticism of a religious war.

For the time at least Italy will have her way, but if she attempts to go too far in her castigation of Turkey the powers will intervene and settle the trouble as they please.

QUIT FEEDING HIM

SEEN AND HEARD

Some telegraph operators know more than their dots and dashes.

The girl who paints abhors a rainy day.

The fellow who can smile when he has a bad toothache is worth while.

Miss Harriet Quimby, after one of her daring aeroplane flights at Mineola, L. I., smiled lightly at a reporter's mention of the danger of flying.

"O, there's danger everywhere," she said. "The walker is in as much danger as the flyer."

"Jorkins, poor fellow, came from the country to see New York. The noise and confusion of New York quite upset him. Threading his way across a busy street he thought he would go mad."

"Jorkins leaped to the right just in time to escape a motor car."

"Ding-a-lings! Ding-a-lings!"

"He darted to the left from under the very wheels of an automobile fire engine."

"Hum-m-m-m!"

"Jorkins, looking up in the air, now saw a monoplane, its tail smashed, falling straight upon him. He glared wildly round, caught sight of a man-hole, lifted the cover and jumped down into a black hole just in time to be cut in half by an underground electric train."

"Hello, Jones!" said Smith. "Are you doing anything special tomorrow night?"

"No, old chap," replied Jones. "I'm not booked."

"What about the day after?" asked Smith.

"Nothing on," answered Jones. "I'm as free as a skipper."

"Really! And Friday?"

"Ah, on Friday, I'm afraid, I'm dining with the Croakers."

"Bless my soul, but what a pity!" exclaimed Smith, disappointedly. "I wanted you to come round on Friday for a snack with me."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

HENRY IV STEALS THRONE

SEPT. 30—Richard II of England was locked up in the tower of London because all his friends had gone back on him including the army. On the 30th of September 1399 he agreed to turn the throne over to his cousin Henry of Bolingbroke if they would let him out. The following day the "Princeling" ceremony started. While this ceremony was going on, Henry of Bolingbroke, duke of Hereford, remained seated in his usual place near the throne, which was empty, and covered with cloth of gold. As soon as eight commissioners had pronounced the sentence of deposition he arose, approached the throne, and having solemnly crossed himself, said in the name of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, I, Henry of Lancaster, challenge this realm of England, because I am descended by right line of blood from the good lord King Henry III, and through that right, that God of his grace hath sent me, with help of my friends and of my friends, to recover it and which realm was in point to be undone for default of government and undoing of the good laws. And Henry IV made good.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

One of the most enjoyable musical comedies that has been seen in this city for years is "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," which appeared at the Opera House last night and this afternoon, and will be given again tonight. The attendance last night was not large, owing to the inclemency of the weather, but those who braved the storm were well repaid for their trouble. It was particularly a case of laugh-ability, from the time the curtain went up on the first act until the close of the show. The scenery was beautiful, the costumes and millinery were by the women in the show of the latest design and the songs and their rendition by the New York company.

The play is founded on the cartoons of George McManus, and the management boasts of having 60 people and a full bill. The last is the alleged baby and one of the attractions in the show. He is Earl Knapp, who plays the part of Napoleon Newkewed, and when he is put away in that role he makes a rapid change to Major Knott Much with a silk like.

The resemblance of the major and little Newkeweds, the Newkewed child, is what the plot is based on and, although it is not a heavy one, there are plenty of peculiar and laughable situations interjected into the comedy. Knapp is not the whole show, by any means, for Daniel F. Murphy, who takes the role of Adolph Nichols, a waiter, is amusing to say the least. In the second act he occupies the stage almost every minute and his actions, conversation and singing are rich. Many new and original songs are rendered during the course of the show.

The following is the cast of characters: Ferdinand Newkewed, Chas. A. Morgan; Napoleon Newkewed, the baby, Earl Knapp; Tom Travers, Paul W. Smith; Prof. August Nickel, Milton Dawson; Adolph Nickel, Daniel F. Murphy; Mrs. I. Chrona, George Averill; Mrs. Newkewed, Olga Yarnall; Gwendolin, Louise Aubert; Dolly Jolly, Billie Townsend; A Bear, John J. Delson; Sgt. Dolly, Gus Stichele.

The musical numbers are as follows: "The King of Babylon," Ensemble; "Little Jack Horner," Tom and Dolly; "Napoleon," Mr. and Mrs. Newkewed and chorus; "Slumber My Little Love," Mrs. Newkewed.

"Love Time," Tom, Violet, Rose and Chorus; "The Boogie Woogie," Dolly, and the Beggie No Babies; Misses Hall, Carman, Brennan, More-lyn, Grant, March, Sheldon, Davis.

"Baby's Gown," Ensemble; "Slumber My Little Love," Ensemble; "Every Baby is a Sweetest Boy," Dora, Cora and Chorus; "An Operatic Solution," Adolph and Chorus.

"My Sweetest Bride," Mrs. Newkewed and Dolly; Assisted by Misses Corwell, Hansen, Crane, Morse, Tolson, Walker, Hall, Switzer, Maltins.

Misses Rice, Myers, Kingston, Lane, Gilbert, Abbott, Wilson, Swinger, Sweitzer Boys.

"Mr. Jigger," Mr. Newkewed, Rose, Violet, and Eight; "Foster Pigeons," "Cub," "Who Want to Go Upon the Stage," Gwendolin and Adolph; "Mammy's Pity," Mrs. Newkewed and Skow Girls; "Can't You See I Love You," Tom, Dolly and Chorus.

Finals. So great a value has been placed upon the films which constitute the principal asset of "Dante's Inferno" to be given at the Lowell Opera House, Oct. 24, with daily matinee that a miniature fireproof safe has been devised to carry the subject.

After several months of negotiations, one of the largest insurance companies in America insured the picture for $600, provided, of course, that the film would be placed in a reputable fireproof vault each night after the performance.

Although the subject is the longest ever photographed in the history of motion pictures, the most enterprising produce in lineal feet ever registered before a camera. Manager Ward of the Opera House is forced to go a substantial bond to protect the film from fire during the local engagement.

In addition to the steel fireproof vault, together with a special type of moving picture machine, eliminates any possible danger of combustion.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, Paul Starnes, the creator and originator of "Living Statues" which will be the headline feature of the strong bill to be given next week at this theatre, has good reasons indeed to be proud. His artistic presentation of "Living Statues" has led to a host of copies, but, at best, these imitations are poor counterfeits.

Paul Starnes, the remarkable person who is the central figure in these poses, is one of the most interesting women on the vaudeville stage. She is but 21 years of age and is said to be one of the most figures ever seen in a posing act.

"Little Lord Robert" who has been termed "the face of war" was made his first law in local audiences, and it promises to be fully as successful as have been his visits to other cities of the states. In spite of the fact that in his last fellow comedians "have it on him," Robert is head and shoulders over them when the laughs he dispenses are related with the other fellows.

Van Hoven, the most marvellous, will be the laughing feature, and there's no doubt that he will prove to be the wildest user of the wand, ever billed in this city. Although he is a magician of considerable ability, Van Hoven thinks that the real work of "now you see and now you don't" business, has now become a mere trick and he has given up the legitimate for the ludicrous.

Arthur Van and his company of musical comedy girls, four queens and a lack, who have proven to be the biggest success of the season is another booking which the manager, Will H. Stevens, must be congratulated in procuring. This act is of like quality and the four young ladies of the company are said to be the possessors of exceptional voices. Arthur Van, is the fun maker of the five.

Leroy and Harvey, two faultless comedians whose rise to the front rank of comedians has been rapid, will give "Tainted Out" a comedy sketch of their own composition. (The Pendleton Sisters, three in all, singers and dancers of repute; and Belle O'Keefe, the girl with the beautiful voice, make up the remainder of the bill.

Dr. Carl Herman, who with his electrical act, is heading the bill, the last two performances of which will be given today, has caught the town, and some who witnessed the act during the early week have come back for the week-end performance for the purpose of seeing once again the doctor and his marvelous exhibition with the high voltage electrical current. While the scientific worth of this act is sufficient to make it a feature, the funny calls which those who go from the audience to test the current the doctor uses when he thrusts a cluster of sparks from his fists at them, and the gyrations which they go through after the shock strikes is laughable. The other acts on the bill are Barlan, Knight and company, in "The Chalk Line," Mr. and Mrs. Allison, presenting "Minnie from Minnesota," John Neff and Carrie Starr, "The Mad Mad Mad and the Telephone Girl," Roeder and Lester, acrobats; Emmett Brothers, dancers and Harry Cantello and Viola Valerie, entertainers.

The regular Sunday concert will be given tomorrow afternoon and evening. In addition to four vaudeville acts, will be shown first acts of the latest moving picture films, of subjects produced by leading film firms of this and foreign countries.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

If you held the deciding vote on a measure in the national senate at Washington, and your voting for this particular measure would mean your vote for your child, would you vote for that measure, or would you vote against it? This is the question which the bill for the National Children's Bill, which will be next week's offering of the Hathaway Theatre, asks you to answer. The bill, which is now before the United States Senate, is a measure which will give your child a free education, and it is a measure which will give your child a free education, and it is a measure which will give your child a free education.

This is what composes the plot of this famous drama of American politics by Hamilton Thaddeus and Thomas A. Wise. Wm. H. Langdon, a return, jovial, good-natured, shrewd and steady hearted Mississippi, much against his wish, is elected to the United States senate. Two places have been selected by a committee of the previous senate as proper sites for a naval base, Atacola and the Gulf of Mexico. These interests, who are in a way responsible for Langdon's election, are given to understand by senators who are promoting the scheme, that Atacola, where the interests are large land owners, is the place where the naval base will be established, providing the vote of Senator Langdon is assured.

The question concerning the naval base becomes a subject much discussed by both press and the public, and the newspapers, with correspondents in Washington, close to the situation, begin to feature it in large type. The time for the voting on the bill for the naval base draws near, and much stress is laid upon Senator Langdon, through his children, to try and ascertain just what stand he is to take. He refuses absolutely to listen to the pleas of his children requesting him to vote for the placing of the base at Atacola instead of the Gulf of Mexico, because they have invested all they

Italy explains to the powers why action was taken against Turkey.

SALONIKI, Turkey, Sept. 30.—The first blow in the Turco-Italian war has been struck by Italy within 24 hours of the declaration of hostilities. Italian warships under the command of the Duke of Abruzzi have bombarded the Turkish seaport of Prevesa destroying the government house there and disabling a Turkish torpedo boat. There had been no hostilities at Tripoli up to 9 o'clock this morning, but Italians are reported to have landed west of Tripoli.

The Turkish government is strengthening its military forces on the Greek and Montenegrin frontiers. The Turkish parliament has been summoned to meet immediately. Turkey has addressed another appeal to the powers, saying there is still time to prevent the evil effects of a conflict.

The impression prevails in diplomatic quarters in Berlin that the conflict will be of short duration.

THE REDEDICATION Of St. Catherine's Church in Graniteville Tomorrow

The rededication of St. Catherine's church, Graniteville, will take place tomorrow afternoon with imposing service at 4.30 o'clock, the ceremony to be conducted by Mgr. Teeling of Lynn, Mass.

The service will open with introductory remarks by the pastor, Rev. E. Schofield, which will be followed by a sermon by Mgr. Teeling. This will be a day of remembrance for Mgr. Teeling, for exactly 16 years ago tomorrow, he celebrated mass in a house at Graniteville, being at the time curate at St. Patrick's church.

Following the sermon will be benediction of the blessed sacrament and for the occasion the choir composed of singers of Forge Village and Graniteville will render several beautiful selections including Gounod's "Ave Maria," Gounod's "O Salutaris," "O Esca Viatorum," Gregorian and Gounod's "Tantum Ergo," and "Divine Praises" of plain chant; the recessional will be "Jerusalem." Miss Mary Hanley will have charge of the choir.

The work on the remodeling of the church was started about six months ago, and it is one of the prettiest and costliest churches for its number of parishioners for miles around, the outside and inside having been remodeled and freshly painted. On the front of the church just above the door is a niche containing a large statue of St. Catherine. The statue is an artistic piece of work and it was donated by the Holy Name society. The Abbott Worsted Co. has donated to the church the sum of $1000, while the Sargent Machine Co. has also made large contributions towards the repairs of the temple. The remodeling of the church cost the parish between $6000 and $7000, but the changes were well worth the money. The new building which is situated fairly well between Graniteville and Forge Village, is now lighted with electricity and contains stained glass windows. The stations of the cross which are beautiful were purchased from Padua, as well as the statue of St. Catherine. Although the church was not completed two masses were said therein every Sunday and tomorrow the masses will be celebrated at 2 and 10.30 o'clock.

ASK FOR MORE MONEY

The School and Park Departments Explain Their Needs

The superintendent of schools and the superintendent of parks appeared before the committee on appropriations last night and the superintendent of schools asked for an appropriation of $28,000 this year to include the expense of the industrial school. The superintendent of parks said that he had exceeded by $1800 his original appropriation of $1000 and he wanted $2500 to settle up the $1800 already expended and to finish the work already started. The committee did not take action on either of the applications.

Stunt Whitcomb said that the original appropriation asked for by his department at the first of the year was $288,000, and the amount granted by the city government was about $17,000 less. He said the department would need the amount originally asked for to carry through the work as anticipated at the outset, with an additional $1000 for the work of placing the public fountains in the school buildings, and other incidentals that cropped up since the first of the year. The installation of the industrial school costs for $10,000 more, which in all means an appropriation of over $28,000. The salary list for the industrial school for the four months of the year would amount to $3250, and the remaining

Hard Battle With Blaze in Charlestown

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—A blaze that threatened to destroy the main factory building of the E. R. Whitman company, manufacturers of store fixtures and refrigerators, at 19 and 23 Dorchester street, Charlestown, started in the paint room on the first floor about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

John Gilmartin, an employee, who was at work in the factory, first noticed the smoke and found the blaze spreading quickly in the stock of paints.

He notified his employers and fellow workmen and then ran out and called the alarm. Engine 32 was first at the scene and soon the entire Charlestown department was at work under direction of Dist. Chief Pope.

Within a few minutes after engine 32 got streams on the fire the flames had reached to the third floor. The firemen cut holes in the side of the building to battle with the fire more effectively. The blaze was confined to one end of the factory.

The main building was well stocked with paint and oil, and an estimated value of $150,000. A large stock of store fixtures and refrigerators on the first floor was either burned or damaged by smoke and heat. Much of the stock on the second floor was damaged.

The damage to the stock and building is estimated by Chief Pope at $2000.

GIFTS TO YALE

Attention is directed to the improved financial position of the oldest school, to which Mrs. E. H. A THREATENING FIRE

Broke Out in the Cudahy Packing Co.'s Plant

What might have proven to be a dangerous fire broke out on the third floor of the Cudahy Packing Co. in Market street, shortly before nine o'clock last night, but Keegan Mully of the police station saw the reflection of the blaze through the window and pulled in an alarm from box 12 located at the end of the Market building. The fire apparatus was soon on the scene and the blaze which broke out in a barrel of sawdust was soon extinguished.

FROM CELL TO RICHES

Story of Convict's Reform and Success Told in Court

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The story of Thomas Curran, a convict, who under the assumed name of Doyle accumulated a considerable fortune and became a leading citizen in Montreal, where at one time it was suggested that he run for mayor, came to light yesterday in the first session of the municipal civil court, before Judge Parmenter in a suit by John J. O'Connor, a lawyer, against James Curran of Hudson brother and executor under the will of Thomas Doyle, to recover for services in connection with the estate.

Mr. O'Connor said the defendant recorded about $100,000 under the will and he thought his brother left a larger fortune than the amount inventoried, which was between $50,000 and $75,000. The attorney claimed his former client wanted him to enforce a claim for money advanced to his brother many years ago in aiding him to escape from Providence, where he was under indictment for horse stealing and other crimes.

According to Mr. O'Connor the Currans arrived in Providence in the early 80s and had more or less trouble with the wayward son, Thomas. After he had been there a short time he was forced to run away because of his ways robbery and assault on a farmer and another had committed in a neighboring town. It never became public until told in court yesterday that Curran was one of the robbers.

Curran left Rhode Island and for years nothing was heard of him. Finally his relatives received information that he was serving a 10-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for a crime committed in Wyoming. In arresting him the sheriff's fully wounded him.

While in that institution Curran learned something of machinery, which later served as the foundation for his successful career of 20 years of honesty under a new name.

Benjamin F. Butler and George J. West, the latter a leading attorney in Providence at the time, were engaged to get Curran out of Joliet. Lawyer O'Connor was told. After serving four years he was released.

He returned to Providence. Soon the chief of police occurred and at midnight one day in 1888 Curran, with the aid of his brother, started for Montreal. Indictments were pending against him charging larceny of horses, wagons, and other things, and receiving stolen goods.

Young Curran entered Montreal under the name of Thomas Doyle. He found work at $1 a day in a factory for the manufacture of glassware. A new form of bottling machine was sent to the factory, but no one there could run it.

Seeing the machine standing in a corner, Curran, or Doyle, in a spare moment tried to run it. He mastered it, and when his employer happened along he demonstrated the working of it. The latter offered him $12 a week to run it, but Doyle proposed a contract for work by the piece, which was accepted.

He went to work for himself under the contract and was successful. After he was married one of the factory girls who had worked for him,

Later he was given the agency for the machine in Canada.

He died in 1902, leaving between $50,000 and $75,000, the bulk of it to the widow and a legacy of $1000 to his brother James.

Mr. O'Connor said he went to Montreal to look into the affairs of the testator, and was satisfied he had not left more than $100,000.

He was employed, he said, to set the legacy, and the claim for money advanced.

The defendant denied he hired the plaintiff to collect any claim against his brother for money advanced. He said he had no claim against the estate.

Mr. O'Connor is also suing John P. Dufanum of Haver, related by marriage to the testator, to recover on a note for $300 for money loaned and expended. John C. Johnston is counsel for plaintiff and William J. Corcoran for defendant.

The judge reserved decision.

THE LIQUOR SQUAD Scored by Gloucester Aldermen

GLoucester, Sept. 30.—City Marshal Merchant and Patrolmen Foster and Brown of the liquor squad, whose alleged inactivity has created considerable discussion by the city council, were given a hearing by the mayor and council yesterday afternoon. He had closed doors at the police station.

Alderman Donahue, who led in this investigation, asked the city marshal why he allowed Foster and Brown to take out warrants to raid certain places without first consulting him. Donahue wanted it distinctly understood that all orders should emanate from the marshal.

The marshal said in reply that an agreement had been made between the mayor, liquor squad and himself that they could take out warrants without consulting him. This Mayor Patch corroborated.

Alderman Donahue wanted to know why cripples had been raised so often and others who, it is said, were defying the law openly had not been raided.

The mayor, who appeared to approve of the marshal's way of enforcing the law, thought the police force was doing fairly well.

Alderman Montgomery said he believed it would be much better to leave the blind and cripples for the list to be raided and attend to all other suspected places first.

Alderman Hackett said he would not vote to dismiss them at this time, but would do so January next. After they had been in consultation an hour the meeting was adjourned.

WISE IS PARDONED REAL ESTATE SALES

Roxbury Man Freed for Transactions Recorded During Past Week

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Edward Wise of Roxbury, convicted of murder in the first degree in New York in 1899 for the death of a cab-driver named Beasley, and whose sentence to the electric chair was commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Roosevelt, was yesterday pardoned by Gov. Dix and restored to full rights of citizenship.

Ex-Congressman Kellher and John A. Sullivan, who, with Miss Murray, tried for 10 years to secure Wise's pardon, and went to Albany for that purpose only last week, received the word that Wise had been released.

The charge on which Wise was convicted was for killing Beasley with an accomplice named Sweeney. Since the trial evidence has been produced to show it was Sweeney who struck the blow, Sweeney made his escape to Africa after the murder, where he is believed to have died.

Congressman Harrison of New York had been interested in the case through Congressman Kellher. Pardon petitions were refused by Govs. Higgins, White and Hughes.

Wise found the prison doors of Sing Sing thrown wide open last September and he walked forth a free man after 12 years of confinement. He felt deeply grateful to his faithful friends. He is most insistent on his innocence.

"I was convicted of a crime I never committed," he told the pardon board when he was called before them last Friday. "I had a billiard and pool room in Boston. I came to New York to drum up talent for a tournament I was about to hold in Boston. I had no friends in New York. On the street I met Thomas Sweeney, whom I knew to be a tough character, but who was better than no companion at all."

"While I was with Sweeney he got into a fight in the dance hall with Beasley. I separated them and got him out of the place. Beasley followed us down and struck Sweeney. Sweeney knocked him down and Beasley's head fell heavily to the curb. In trying to get them apart I fell, too. When I got up Sweeney was running away. I saw that Beasley was dead, and started to run."

Money deposited this week or next in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank begins to draw interest Saturday, Oct. 7.

HELD UNDER NEW REGULATIONS BY COMPANY K

The members of Company K of the Sixth regiment held the first drill under the new regulations last night. Captain Greig received a copy of the new regulations yesterday in Boston. Later the captains of the other local companies will receive the regulations. There is a big difference between the new manual and that of the year 1904. Success in battle is the thing which is in the new manual. Radical changes have also been made in the ranges, the 600, 800, 1000 yards now being the close, effective and long range, in place of the 200, 300 and 400 yards as formerly.

BRADLEY BLOCK, HAMILTON WALL, CENTRAL STREET

Contracts have been awarded to C. P. Conant, the well known contractor of Lowell, for the new business block to be built on the Hamilton wall site on Central street, which was recently purchased by C. E. and W. J. Bradley of Lawrence, Mass.

The above out shows the building as designed by the architects, Ashton & Huntress, of Lawrence, Mass. The building will be 291 feet long by 60 feet deep. There will be fifteen stores on the ground floor, eleven will be 18 feet wide, three 12 feet wide, and one 36 feet wide. The stores are so constructed that any number may be put together, making one large store. The display windows will be of the latest design with large plate glass fronts, butted together at joints and held with nickel plated holders. Over the plate glass will be transoms glazed with prism glass set in copper muntins. Each store will have metal ceilings, also gas and electric fixtures. The height of stores will vary from 13 ft. 6 in. to 15 ft. and will allow for overhead offices or gallery as tenants may require. Each store will have separate toilet room. The vestibule floors to each store will have marble mosaic floor and marble terrazzo base course for entire front. Each store will have rear entrance to the alley which will be 15 feet wide with exit on Central street, and each store will have facilities for putting goods from the alley into the basement which will be 8 feet high and well lighted. The material used on the front of the building will be a golden buff, rough cut brick with trimming of white terra cotta, also sunk panels of rough cement and red tile.

The second floor is reached by two entrances, each having a marble stairway 6 feet wide with liberal vestibules which have marble dado, tile floors, arched ceilings, and large directory cabinets.

The corridor on the second floor is 8 feet 6 inches wide and runs the entire length of building.

The space on the street side will be used for 15 stores or shops, of which six are 14x28 ft., two 25-6x23 ft., five 18x28 and two 28-6x23 ft. These last will extend from front to rear of the building. These stores will have large plate glass display windows at front, also plate glass fronts facing corridor, making an ideal store for almost any merchant or craftsman.

On the rear side of the corridor will be sixteen rooms averaging 12 ft. by 20 ft., to be used as offices; also a janitor's room, toilets for men and women, back stairway, steel hoist for safes and heavy furniture, room for meters, fireproof waste boxes, and all modern conveniences that go with an up-to-date structure.

The entire building will be finished in oak with maple floors, painted burlap dado for corridor, marble dado for stairs and vestibules, tinted walls and ceilings.

Steam heat will be supplied from the Hamilton mills corporation which insures a steady and ever ready supply at all times.

The building will be completed about April 1, 1912. Some of the stores are already leased.

CHARLES R. CRANE

SAYS TURKS HAVE WROUGHT DESTRUCTION IN ALBANIA

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charles R. Crane, who recently returned from a trip of investigation through the Balkans, speaking of the war between Turkey and Italy, regarded the Albanian massacre the key to the entire situation. Mr. Crane branded Turkey as a monster worthy of the bloodiest days of Abdul Hamid, who gave his soldiers orders to grant no quarter, either to men, women or children.

"Austria is a strong power in the Balkans," Mr. Crane said, "as are Italy and Russia. The devastation wrought by the Turks in Albania is shocking. The Albanians will never give up and should be of great assistance to any power at war with Turkey."

MY FACE WAS ALL BROKEN OUT

And So Disfiguring Eruption Started with a Pimple. Came in Blotches, Causing Great Pain. Spread Rapidly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Blotches Disappeared.

"My trouble started with a pimple on my nose, which I picked, and it rapidly spread all over my face, the eruption coming in blotches, and causing great pain and disfigurement. My face was all broken out, and oh so disfiguring; being a business woman, it was dreadfully embarrassing. I was doctoring for six months without any relief. Then I saw the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised, so I bought a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and used them, and lo! my face was all better in a few days. I take great pleasure in recommending them to all my friends." (Signed) Miss Nellie Loneragan, 215 Ninth Ave., New York City, Jan. 20, 1911.

For more than a generation warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 25c. book on care and treatment of the skin and scalp, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 20A, Boston, Mass.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL

be called upon to furnish an army of fighting men to take the field against the Italians, according to a declaration yesterday by Djalal Bey, the Turkish consul-general, here.

"We have received no official news here of the declaration of war," the consul-general said. "Our only information on the situation is what we have seen in the newspapers today. But we are expecting to hear from the embassy at Washington at any moment."

Djalal Bey said that there were 50,000 Turkish subjects living in New York city, or about one-eighth of the entire number of Turks in the United States. "Do you expect to call upon them to aid in the war which Italy has declared?" he was asked. "Such a call is entirely possible," he replied. "It would be issued, however, not by me, but by the Ottoman embassy at Washington. I suppose I would see that my countrymen living in New York would receive it."

Djalal Bey reached New York only Thursday night from Constantinople to assume the post of consul-general made vacant by the recall of Retel Bey six months ago. The new consul-general served as first secretary of the Turkish embassy at Washington for three years, leaving there in 1906 to return to Constantinople.

GOING BACK

ALBANIANS LEAVE WORCESTER TO FIGHT OLD FOE

WORCESTER, Sept. 30.—A dozen Albanians who have been living in Worcester for nearly two years are to join the Italian army and fight against their ancient foes, the Turks, according to their own statement. The Albanians have left for New York to sail on the steamer Philadelphia for Greece, where they expect to go to Tripoli.

Ransford D. Bucknam (Bucknam Pasha), vice admiral of the Turkish navy, has relatives in Worcester. He is a native of Nova Scotia, but has lived in Maine, Michigan and this state. His wife was Miss Rose Thayer of San Francisco.

THE CREW SAVED

TURKISH VESSELS WERE FIRED ON BY ITALIAN CRUISER

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—The official version of the engagement off Preveza says that an Italian cruiser accompanied by torpedo boats attacked two Turkish boat destroyers as the latter were leaving Preveza. One of the Turkish vessels found refuge in Preveza harbor, while the other was struck by several shells and ran ashore. The crew was saved.

TO PROPERLY TREAT OBSTINATE WRINKLES

"Particularly where wrinkles and furrows are long and deep, the massage devotee is apt to rub too hard and too frequently," says Dr. Limoges. "Such treatment loosens the skin, causes muscles to sag and aggravates the wrinkled condition. Just the opposite result from what she seeks. 'Better than massage, or anything else, for the most obstinate wrinkles and crows' feet, as well as the finest lines, is a formula well known in France, which American ladies may readily avail themselves of, as you will have no difficulty procuring the constituents from your druggists. It is this: One ounce powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel. Rub the face, neck and hands in this daily. The effect is really marvelous, not only as to wrinkles, but also in case of double chin and baggy cheeks. The application is cooling, soothing, tending to relieve fatigue and insomnia."

steps taken will be confined to the occupation of Tripoli, that the hostilities will be of short duration and that negotiations to fix the status of Tripoli will be begun soon. Italy, it is stated, will endeavor to localize the hostilities. The note closes with the assurance that the steps taken are in the interests of humanity and civilization and that no effort will be spared to protect the subjects of other nations in Tripoli.

GREAT REJOICING

THROUGHOUT ITALY OVER THE DECLARATION OF WAR

ROME, Sept. 30.—The declaration of war against Turkey has been received with enthusiasm in all parts of the country. Upon the receipt of the news from the capital great processions were organized at Genoa, Milan, Bergamo, Parma, Bari, Vercelli and Perugia shouting patriotic songs and acclaiming the army and navy. The government is communicating to the powers its position respecting the various phases of the conflict.

A despatch from Genoa says that the Turkish consul there has received instructions to go to Turin and withdraw the Turkish exhibits from the international exposition.

A news despatch from Tripoli says that a boarding party from the Italian squadron took possession of the Turkish transport Derna at Tripoli. The transport, which still had on board a small part of her cargo of war supplies, surrendered without resistance. The despatch adds that in the event of the bombardment of Tripoli Italians and other foreigners, including newspapermen, will be taken aboard the vessels of the Italian fleet.

PEACE SOCIETY

WANTS UNITED STATES TO TENDER FRIENDLY OFFICES

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—A telegram requesting the United States government to tender its friendly offices to Italy and Turkey with a view to preventing further hostilities was sent to Secretary of State Knox today by the officers of the Massachusetts Peace society.

The despatch follows:

"Boston, Mass., Sept. 30, 1911. Hon. Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C. 'In the name of humanity and out of respect for law, the Massachusetts Peace society requests the United States government to tender its friendly offices to Italy and Turkey with a view to preventing further hostilities between them and to consider the advisability of proposing reference of their differences to the Hague court of arbitration provided they cannot be adjusted by diplomacy.' CHIEF OFFICERS OF TURKISH ARMY

MOHAMMED V SULTAN OF TURKEY

U. S. GOVERNMENT

Seeks to Indict the Jenkins Briber

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The government, through United States Attorney Wise, next week will start a sweeping grand jury investigation of the Helen Dwellie Jenkins smuggling case, the chief aim of which will be to catch the "man higher up" in that sensational affair.

That this man is a New York multimillionaire with international financial connections is known to the Federal authorities.

It was enabled to cheat the government out of millions in the aggregate, the officials who have for months been looking into the matter are convinced, by having successfully organized and rigidly maintained through two or three administrations of the customs house a regular system of bribery of inspectors.

At least four of these inspectors are known to be still in the service. It is even asserted that a man, who for several years held the office of deputy collector, but who is not now in the service, was systematically bribed by the multi-millionaire to permit the inspectors to pass his baggage free.

It is known the government, by instituting criminal proceedings against one inspector, hopes to force him to tell all he knows about the system under which the "man higher up" cheated the treasury for so many years.

It is understood that, should he make complete revelation of the past, the inspector will merely be dropped from the service.

It was learned at the office of United States Attorney Wise yesterday that both Allen and Collins, who were jointly indicted last August on the charge of smuggling in connection with the Jenkins jewels, but neither of whom has been arrested, will go here next Monday to plead to the indictments.

JUDGE SHERMAN

Of the Superior Court to Retire Next Monday

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Judge Edgar Sherman of the superior court, one of the best known justices in the state, will retire next Monday, an announcement to that effect being made at the court house today. The judge leaves the bench under the law which provides that a justice of the superior court having attained the age of 70 years, and having served for at least ten years, may retire from active service. Judge Sherman is 71 years of age. This will give Governor Foss another opportunity to appoint a judge of the superior court. He has two vacancies already to fill, one caused by the death of Judge Richardson and the other by the elevation of Judge DeCoursey to the supreme court.

KILLED BY TRAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Lillian Ryan, wife of Martin Ryan, an engineer on the New York Central, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by a northbound second avenue elevated train at the Fulton street station. Her head was severed and her body frightfully mutilated under the flanges of the wheels of the train.

The identity of Mrs. Ryan was in doubt for some time, but was finally established by a pawn ticket showing that M. Ryan had pledged a diamond ring for $153 and had given No. 353 East One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street as a home address. The police learned from Charles J. Jones, owner of the house, that Martin Ryan and his wife had lived there for the last fourteen years, and Jones identified her body at the old city station. Later the husband verified the identification.

There is still some mystery about Mrs. Ryan's death. Passengers standing nearest her on the platform assert that she deliberately jumped to the tracks. The first that the motorman saw of the body was when his train was so close that the air brakes could not stop it in time. Mrs. Ryan was smartly dressed and wore a diamond jewelry to the value of several thousand dollars.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON

The Big College Elevens Played Their First Games Today

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Football season into its full stride today on every college gridiron of the country and for the next ten weeks the most attractive of college games will attract attention.

Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania sent their elevens for the first time in games with Bates, Stevens and Gettysburg, while Holy Cross gave Yale the second test of the season at New Haven.

As early opponents are usually weaker teams large scores were expected today but with the advancing season the struggles will grow fiercer until the culmination is reached in what are generally championship games.

In many cases the relative strength of the different teams can only be judged by comparing scores but this year Holy Cross is expected to turn out a good line on Yale, Harvard and Princeton for the Worcester team after meeting Yale today plays the Princeton next Saturday and the Tigers.

The game at New Haven today was therefore the most important on the long schedule.

Cool, snappy weather, ideal for football was reported from all points in the East.

HARVARD VS. BATES
CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 30.—Football opened a nine weeks engagement in the Harvard stadium today with Bates as the curtain-raiser. During the remaining eight Saturdays Harvard will meet in order Holy Cross, Williams, Amherst, Brown, Princeton at Princeton, Dartmouth and Yale.

The Harvard practice season this year has been unusually short but at the same time unusually vigorous, so that it was no crude product that lined up against Bates today.

DARTMOUTH'S GAME
HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 30.—Dartmouth's opponent today in the second game of the Green's 1911 football season was the team representing the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Last year the Aggies held Dartmouth to a 6 to 0 score, but it was doubted generally today if the visitors would prove so formidable to the Hanoverians as the veteran Norwich team which played Dartmouth three days ago. Several important shifts in the Dartmouth team were made yesterday.

The probable lineup:
Dartmouth Mass. Agricultural
Daley le le Larson
Elecock lt lt Sampson
Whittemore lg lg Baker
Gibson c c Hubert
Dunbar rg rg Walker
Barnard rt rt Hayden
Estep re re Huntington
Llewellyn kb kb Smith
Hogsett lb lb Brewer
Morley rh rh Nason
Dudley or Snow fb fb Morrau or Merrill

CORNELL'S QUARTERBACK WILL BE KICKING SENSATION OF SEASON

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 30.—There is no concealing Cornell's optimism over the football outlook. Coach Reed was highly pleased with the work of the men in the recent game with Albany. Although the contest was one-sided, the score being 35 to 0, Reed said he was impressed by Cornell's speed and power. Eddie Butler at quarterback played a brilliant game, pulling off some spectacular plays.

WILLIAMS IN GOOD SHAPE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Sept. 30.—The Williams football team spent today with a game with the Massachusetts Agricultural College. The team was in good shape after two days of hard work, was confident in its ability to win, and a fast game was expected.

Last year Williams played a 6 to 0 game. The Tigers this year have nine victories in their lineup.

YALE MEETS HOLY CROSS
NEW HAVEN, Sept. 30.—Yale in the past has found that Holy Cross plays a good game of football and this afternoon's game is looked to with more than usual interest owing to reports that have come here that the visiting team is of more than usual strength.

Since the game with Wesleyan the Yale men have not been worked hard. The second and third string men have been given chances in scrimmaging and a lot of promising material already is in sight.

The football management has given out several hundred tickets for this game to public school boys. The teams will line up as follows:

Yale Holy Cross
D. Hamsfiter le le Whelan
Scully lt lt Osterberg
Francis lg lg Davis
McClintock c c Monahan
McDevitt rg rg Collins
Warren rt rt Tobin
W. Howe re re McCallister

PRINCETON'S FIRST GAME

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30.—The opening of the football season here today when Princeton meets Stevens Institute of Technology finds the home eleven in fairly good condition for the beginning of the fall campaign. Princeton does not expect a very hard game.

STOCK MARKET

WAS STRONG AT THE CLOSE THIS NOON

Trading Diminished in the Last Hour—Influences of Standard Issues Were Freely Absorbed—Final Prices Were Slightly Below the Best

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Strength of the United States Steel shares was the feature of the stock market opening today. The common stock on an opening transaction of 2000 shares rose to 10 1/2, a gain of half a point. On moderate trading its gain was soon lost, but it held a point at the close.

Amalgamated Copper also gained a point, and National Biscuit of 1/4. Reading, however, closed a shade off. In the early trading the whole market stiffened, leading to a point above yesterday's close.

However, the first effort to raise copper prices. Later when the speculative action began to appreciate the underlying strength the market was disengaged in face of the various unfavorable factors, purchases were resumed with confidence and prices mounted steadily. Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting gained two points, United States 1 1/2, the pld. 1 1/2, Reading and U. P. 1/2 and active stocks generally a point or more.

The market closed strong. Trading diminished in the last hour but the advance was fully maintained in the face of a heavy market for securities. In fact further gains were scored, offerings of the standard issues being freely absorbed and inducing further short covering especially in the copper and allied stocks. Reactions in the American issues were followed by declines elsewhere and final prices were fractionally below the best.

MARRIAGE IS VALID

EMMA EAMES
OF TALK, N.Y.

EMILIO DE GOGORZA

The Church Declares Its Approval of Eames-Gogorza Union

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Mgr. Ametio, archbishop of Paris, at his palace in the rue Bonaparte, said yesterday afternoon: "I signed half an hour ago a three-page letter to Mgr. Falcioni, apostolic delegate to the Vatican to Washington, containing the detailed reply of the Vatican concerning an investigation regarding rumors circulated after the Eames-Gogorza marriage. 'No fact advanced by the critics or enemies of Mme. Eames or Sig. Gogorza is correct.'"

"In the reply the Vatican explains that (canonically speaking) the marriage is 'exact.' In the case of Mme. Eames her first marriage was contracted outside the church; she was not even baptized; consequently she was considered an infidel. The same is the case concerning Mr. Story. Such marriages are recognized from a theological standpoint, as so-called 'natural marriages,' but can be broken when one spouse wants to become a convert to Catholicism. It is then by spontaneous act of faith that one spouse liberates himself or herself from the marriage bond."

LARGE ADDITIONS

TO BE MADE TO SOUTH STATION IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—As an indication of the growth of Boston in reference to its railroad facilities, the Boston Terminal company has decided to expand about $500,000 in enlarging the South station. This sum will be spent in raising the two-story side of the building on Summer street, a distance of 25 feet, and continuing along the Broadway avenue frontage for a distance of 150 feet.

This section of the terminal will, on completion of the work, be five stories high, the same as the main portion of the building. This will permit an additional 250 offices for the use of the Terminal company.

The offices of the president, vice-presidents and directors will be located on the fourth floor of the new addition at the corner of Summer street and Dorchester avenue, which location permits of excellent light and air and is remote from the noise of the Elevated.

The entire third floor extension will be occupied by the officials of the New Haven road, it being understood that a much larger clerical force will be added in Boston by that company.

The addition will be carried out in harmony with the existing structure and will be supervised by Messrs. Shepley, Bulfinch & Coolidge architects for the original structure, the work being under the direction of R. T. Wheeler, chief engineer of the Terminal company.

The fourth and fifth floors will be occupied by the officials of the New Haven road, it being understood that a much larger clerical force will be added in Boston by that company.

The Best Treatment for Itching Scalps and Falling Hair

To stop itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following treatment is generally successful for this special treatment for women's hair. Notwithstanding the fact that the scalp is not a part of the body, it is nevertheless a part of the body and should be treated as such. The scalp is the foundation of the hair and should be kept in good condition. The scalp should be washed with a mild soap and water, and then treated with a special treatment for women's hair. The scalp should be kept in good condition and the hair should be kept in good condition.

The medical authorities of Cornell university have discovered that infantile paralysis is both infectious and contagious, that it is communicated by dust from the rooms in which the patients suffering from the disease are confined, and that it gains entrance through the nose. This indicates progress towards the control of the disease, although it has hitherto puzzled the medical authorities of the world.

DIFFICULTIES CONFRONTING PRESIDENT TAFT

While President Taft claims to be wholly unversed in the politician's art, he seems to be playing the game with a fine hand all along his tour to the west. He is making the best of a bad matter.

The tariff, the trusts, the supreme court decision and further prosecutions are the questions that keep him busy explaining. The fact is, that before the supreme court gave its decision in the oil and tobacco cases, the president had taken a stand widely different. Now he has to reconcile his own views previously expressed to the decision of the court. That whole question is in a very unsettled condition despite the statements of the president to the contrary.

On the tariff issue also the president has a whole lot of explanations to make. It will be remembered that before the Payne-Aldrich bill was passed he vigorously denounced "schedule K," yet when the bill to reduce the exorbitant duty on woolens was presented to him he used the veto power to defeat it. The president endeavors to defend his inconsistency in this respect by saying that he wants to get the report of his tariff board before changing the schedule. He did not wait for the report of any such board before framing the reciprocity pact. That he considered a political necessity, and when he accused the democrats of playing politics on the wool and cotton tariffs he might as well admit that he himself had played politics on the reciprocity measure—and lost.

He is devoting all his time now to a defense of his administration and to an effort to placate the standpatters on the one hand and the insurgents on the other. Verily the president has a difficult task to perform and one in which oily speeches will hardly serve to reunite and solidify the now disrupted republican party.

THREAT OF THE BRITISH UNIONISTS

The Unionists in the north of Ireland have threatened to rebel rather than submit to a measure of home rule, but the threat has caused no alarm. When England succeeds in wiping out the bickerings of factional strife, which have long divided her people and thereby lessened their success, she will be the better able to meet the other nations in the markets of the world. The people who would keep alive the fouds of bygone ages are behind the times. With the rapid transportation over land and sea, the instantaneous transmission of intelligence by telegraph with or without wires, the civilized nations are yearly being drawn into closer relations, and the nation whose people are divided against themselves is at a great disadvantage in the struggle for commercial progress and supremacy. No nation is so great that it can afford to have its people divided and fighting one another. Could the United States prosper if the north and the south still kept up the spirit of enmity that led them into deadly conflict in the Civil war? Not at all, and the same is true of every nation under the sun. England's commerce has been affected by the opposition of the peoples she has oppressed, and now that there is a prospect of overcoming this disadvantage, an insignificant faction bores up to insist that the conditions that have existed in the past, whether for better or worse, shall be perpetuated. The statesmen of England, we believe, have decided to remove every cause of discontent so far as that is possible at home, in order that the empire may be the better able to compete with the other nations in the race for commercial supremacy. The principle of majority rule strictly applied will settle many of the differences and where the minority refuses to obey it simply challenges the application of force. The same principles that make the successful man will bring success to a nation if properly applied. When a nation can rely upon its people, whether at home or abroad, to be loyal and to be deeply interested in its welfare, it has an asset that counts for success and one that the nation torn by dissensions and party strife can never enjoy. It is the first duty of a government to remove popular discontent by fair treatment and then to lead them onward towards social, industrial and commercial success.

WAR IN THE EAST

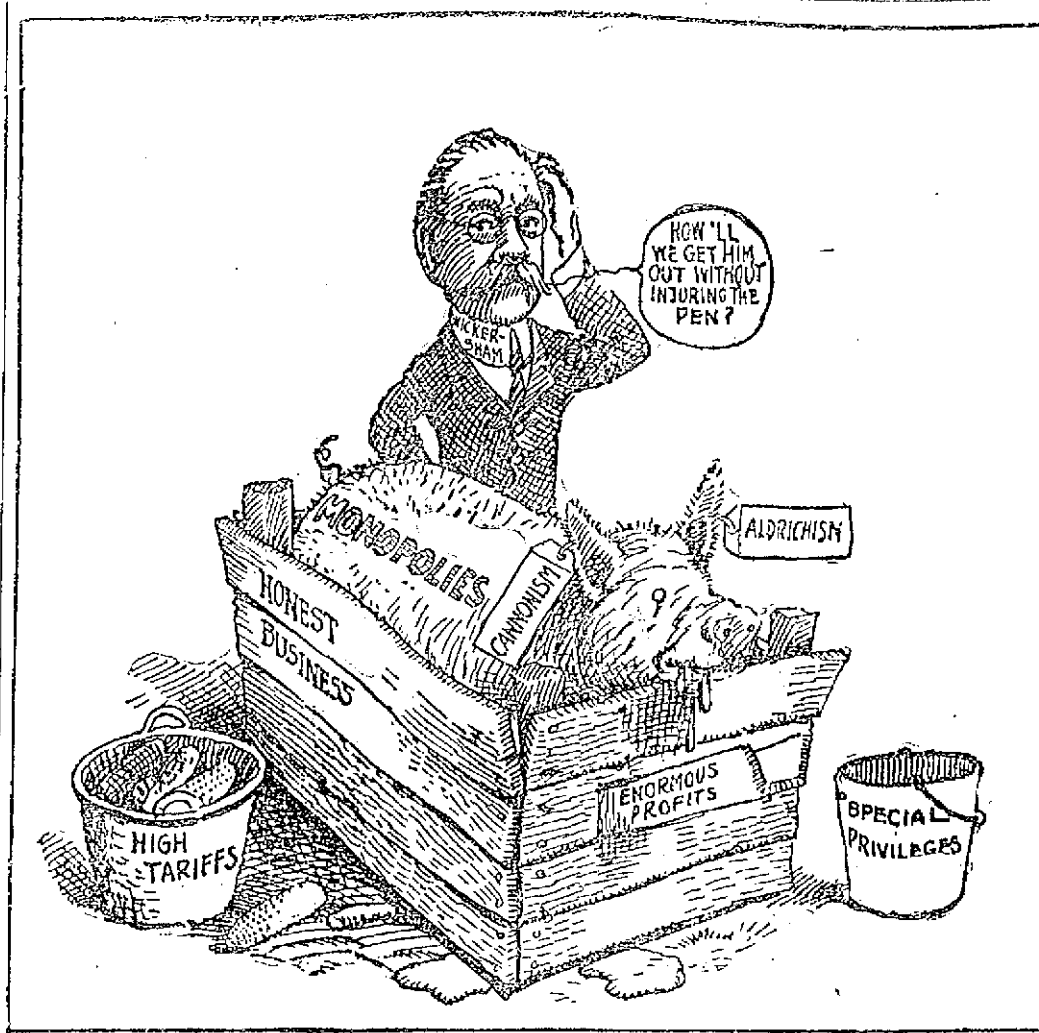

Seldom indeed has it happened that war has been declared so precipitately as by Italy in her conflict with Turkey. Although the outer world knew little or nothing of the enmity between these two nations, it has been growing more bitter for years past. The Turks are a fanatical people, and once they begin to hate another race they show a spirit of vengeance such as is rarely experienced outside the Ottoman empire.

By a treaty signed in 1878 the powers granted Italy the privilege of "peaceful penetration of Tripoli," and it is to maintain her supposed rights under this treaty and to protect her established interests in Tripoli and Cyrene that she has declared war. But if Italy felt that none of the leading powers would approve her course in declaring war with Turkey we doubt whether she would blaze away at the Turk in such mad haste. Turkey had appealed to the powers, and while not directly repudiating Italy's demands she tried to evade the main point, protested against unfriendly action and pleaded for delay.

Italy's fleet alone is feared by Turkey, as otherwise the latter has nothing to dread from a war with Italy. Turkey is a continuous source of trouble to Europe, and were it not for the international bond of jealousy known as "the balance of power," she would have been partitioned among the other powers long ago.

Just at present Turkey is not prepared to fight, but she will hereafter cherish such undying vengeance against Italians that the trouble between the two nations will be continued for years, and in many respects will partake of the fanaticism of a religious war.

For the time at least Italy will have her way, but if she attempts to go too far in her enslavement of Turkey the powers will intervene and settle the trouble as they please.

QUIT FEEDING HIM

SEEN AND HEARD

Some telegraph operators know more than their dots and dashes.

The girl who paints abhors a rainy day.

The fellow who can smile when he has a bad toothache is worth while.

Miss Harriet Quimby, after one of her daring airplane flights at Mineola, L. I., smiled lightly at a reporter's intimation of the danger of flying.

"O, there's danger everywhere," she said. "The walker is in as much danger as the flyer."

"Hum-m-m!" "Jenkins, looking up in the air, now saw a monoplane, its tail smashed, falling straight upon him. He glared wildly round, caught sight of a man-hole, lifted the cover and jumped down into a black hole just in time to be cut in half by an underground electric train."

"Hello, Jones!" said Smith. "Are you doing anything special tomorrow night?" "No, old chap," replied Jones. "I'm not booked."

"What about the day after?" asked Smith. "Nothing on," answered Jones. "I'm as free as a skipper."

"Really! And Friday?" "Ah, on Friday, I'm afraid, I'm dining with the Crokers."

"Bless my soul, but what a pity!" exclaimed Smith, disappointedly. "I wanted you to come round on Friday for a snack with me."

"What about the day after?" asked Smith. "Nothing on," answered Jones. "I'm as free as a skipper."

"Really! And Friday?" "Ah, on Friday, I'm afraid, I'm dining with the Crokers."

"Bless my soul, but what a pity!" exclaimed Smith, disappointedly. "I wanted you to come round on Friday for a snack with me."

"Jenkins, poor fellow, came from the country to see New York. The noise and confusion of New York quite upset him. Threading his way across a busy street he thought he would go mad."

"Ding-a-ling! Ding-a-ling!" "He darted to the left from under the very wheels of an automobile fire engine."

"Hum-m-m!" "Jenkins, looking up in the air, now saw a monoplane, its tail smashed, falling straight upon him. He glared wildly round, caught sight of a man-hole, lifted the cover and jumped down into a black hole just in time to be cut in half by an underground electric train."

MR. I. L. SHOWEM HAS A LITTLE ADVENTURE WITH THE COUNT

MILLINERY OPENINGS

Attracted Thousands of Women to the Local Stores Today

The great attractions along the business streets of the city today, are the millinery openings, and thousands of women visited the different stores. The displays are the finest ever shown in Lowell.

BON MARCHE

FALL AND WINTER OPENING ATTRACTS MANY

Yesterday was the first time within the recollection of any of the clerks in the Bon Marche that the opening was not accompanied by sunshine, but while the weather was certainly disagreeable it seemed that it would take more than an ordinary rainy day to keep the ladies from coming down town to see the gorgeous display of beautiful millinery and other things that had been displayed to the best possible advantage for the inspection of the public. The millinery department never looked more charming, and while everything was old and disengaged outside, the store was filled with people admiring and examining the exhibits prepared. Of course the millinery always predominates at the openings, and perhaps always will, but there are other departments in the mammoth establishment that are well worth inspection. The large department store has undergone many changes during the past six months, and is now a more practical and very beneficial to the patrons. Each and every department has undergone a change for the better. The old show cases that did service for a number of years have been discarded and new and beautiful ones have replaced them, which are not only more artistic, but more useful. Mr. Gorham is responsible for the important changes for the welfare of the patrons. The recent marked down sales have so greatly reduced the stock that about all the old stock has been cleaned out, and each department has been restocked with new and up-to-date goods. Due to get back to the millinery, it is not necessary to enlarge on this department to any great extent, but certainly the ladies should call and see for themselves. Mention will be made of a few creations. They are: Model designed by Mainis Lewis is made of white furry beaver, faced in deep corseur silk felt, with white ostrich plumes slantwise across the crown; a model designed by Camille Roger is of bisque moire, seal brown velvet and natural Paradise egrettes; a model designed by Suzanne Talbot is a large cloche shape of black faille, faced in black velvet. Ostrich feather band and French plumes arranged to spread over crown. The next important department is the suit and cloak department, and here certainly there is class to about everything exhibited. There are magnificent suits, coats and capes for the opera, reception, church or any special occasion. Space prevents going into a detailed description of the display seen here. There is everything to fit persons in any station in life from the richest to the poorest. You cannot afford to let this opportunity pass if you are interested in the latest up-to-date styles of Paris, London and New York. One garment that is both ornamental and useful is the reversible coat, two coats in one, which is gaining in popularity every day. One day you can have a coat of handsome Coronation shade, with collar, cuffs and pockets of gray and next day for a change, just vice versa. These garments can be worn either side out and some of the very pretty combinations shown are brown and copper, gray and purple, gray and green, gray and wistaria, gray and blue, gray and tan and brown and green. These coats promise excellent service, as well as comfort at all times to the wearer, as they are very warm, of soft wool fabric. Attractive model is shown as low as $14.00 and others as high as $35.00.

WHEN THE RAZOR SLIPS

Even the most careful man will nick his face with the razor occasionally, and often shave too close. A touch of Comfort Powder will stop the bleeding at once, take out soreness and cause quick healing. It is delightful after shaving, keeps the skin smooth, destroys disease germs and prevents chapping. Dr. H. C. Bullock of Hartford, Conn., says "For use after bathing or shaving it is the best in the world. It is a skin healing wonder for infants and adults alike." Look for E. S. Sykes' signature on the box.

A RICH DISPLAY

If one wishes to see one of the richest displays of fall millinery imaginable, she should take advantage of the excellent opportunity offered by Rose Jordan Hartford, in her annual fall opening, which will be held at her store in Merrimack street today. Mrs. Hartford has used great care and most artistic taste in her selection of millinery for the coming season. All the color combinations and shapes are of the very latest designs, many of them having been imported, while some are of her own design, an item which, in itself, is a recommendation, for her fame as a designer of millinery is far reaching. The display of hats is rich in both the variety of ideas and in the beauty of the models.

The colors for early wear are especially pleasing, including the deep purple shade, the American beauty brown, a color that is becoming popular in hats; blue in all shades, and trimmings of gold and bronze braids that are sure to "catch."

The windows are filled with rich color combinations and distinctive creations that are positively a temptation to any lover of beauty. Mrs. Catherine Donohue and Margaret Harrington played an important part in the dressing of the hats for the window display.

Mrs. Hartford has taken especial precision in her selection of "general utility" hats, to be worn with tailored suits, and for every day use. These are of a smaller shape and are very attractive in fact, to appreciate their beauty one would have to visit the store in person and look them over.

GRAND DISPLAY AT GREGOIRE'S

One of the most attractive millinery displays in this city in the present fall opening is that at Madame Gregoire's elaborate and spacious parlors at 141-145 Merrimack street. Mme. Gregoire is noted for her artistic taste when it comes to ladies' headgear and inasmuch as she has made many visits to Paris and is well acquainted with the leading milliners of that city she has had an excellent opportunity to study the style of the leading trimmers of hats in the world. She can produce creations which cannot be excelled.

It is a well known fact that Mme. Gregoire carries a great assortment of ladies' hats, which vary in size, shape, color and trimmings, but it is necessary for her to do this owing to the increase in business, for once a person is fitted to a hat at this store she is a regular customer. The charm of Madame Gregoire's art is the matching of color effects and the artistic adaptation to the features and stature of the wearer.

There is a splendid opportunity for the customers to view the hats owing to the spacious quarters and the manner in which the different styles are arranged, and there are scores of competent clerks on hand.

If we were to dwell on all the good points of this wonderful millinery exhibit we should require columns, of space, therefore suffice it to say that in this display Mme. Gregoire has outdone her former efforts. Never before has her display been so uniquely varied, yet so rare in points of excellence. Madame Gregoire is showing an assortment of trimmed hats that is unequalled for beauty and style as well as embodying the cleverest ideas of foremost millinery designers.

The newest colorings for autumn and winter are combined in the most attractive ways, among which will be found the rich shades of wine, purple, old gold, taupe, stone green, sulphur, holly green and peacock enriched by fur and metallic lace and trimmings.

Madame Gregoire, although an expert designer, herself, is fortunate in having the services of a designer and trimmer in the person of Mr. Frank Montgomery, who is noted for his excellent taste.

As stated above, those who have ever purchased hats at Madame Gregoire's store are well acquainted with her methods and the excellence of her work, but to those who have never visited the store the writer would state that it would be beneficial to them to call and inspect the various hats.

fashionable millinery. This season she has a most beautiful and carefully selected stock of pattern hats for the inspection of her many friends that certainly would make the ordinary person look very classy. The exhibit this year is a great improvement over that of last year as far as shapes and forms are concerned, also the trimmings. Miss Higgins must be highly pleased with the many compliments she received for the style and beauty of her exhibit of exquisite and exclusive millinery. The exhibit continues throughout the week.

OPENING AT ABELS' STORE

The late A. M. Abels conducted one of the oldest and most popular millinery and furrier stores in the city, and Miss Katherine A. Tancered, who has for a number of years been in charge of the millinery and fur department, is now employed as manager, and has prepared a very nice exhibit. The customers of former years will be pleased undoubtedly to know that Miss Tancered will be able to attend to their millinery and fur supply as she has in the past. While on your tour of inspection of the millinery stores it would be well to remember that Miss Tancered can be found at 135 Merrimack street, up one flight, where her grand display of millinery and furs can be seen. The opening continues throughout the week.

BOSTON CLOAK AND SUIT STORE

This well known cloak and suit store, which is located in the Old City Hall building, is filled with a very carefully selected stock of ladies' garments, cloaks, suits and furs. This store is the outlet of their large Boston Suit and Cloak store and Mr. Lemkin, the proprietor, is an expert in selecting goods, and having a very large business in Boston he is able to deal directly with the manufacturers, thereby saving commissions of the middleman, and giving the lowest possible prices to his patrons. His large show windows show a wealth of beautiful costumes and any lady might feel proud if she were fortunate enough to be the owner of one of them. The variety of costumes is very extensive, and the prices are always the very lowest. The fur business is an important branch of Mr. Lemkin's business, and here can be seen all the latest novelties of the season at prices that seem to be within the reach of anybody who can afford to wear furs. They are making a special exhibit today and all are cordially invited to call. It is no trouble to the clerks to show goods, and no doubt when the cost and prices are considered the Boston Cloak and Suit store will surely get its share of the public patronage.

COLONIAL MILLINERY DEPT.

The Colonial millinery parlors are presided over by Miss Agnes Madigan, and the place is a bower of beauty and elegance. The rooms are spacious, airy and comfortable, so that people who are inspecting the choice display of this season's creations will find no pleasanter place to visit than the Colonial millinery parlors. Miss Madigan, the able manager is assisted by a number of expert milliners, and you are always sure of being pleased with work entrusted to their care. When you receive your order you will be satisfied that no better or more beautiful hat can be seen than the one that has been made for you at this popular millinery establishment. The opening will continue throughout the day and evening.

A SCENE OF BEAUTY

Grand Display at Gilbride Company's Store

Don't fail to take in the Gilbride Co.'s fall opening. A peek at the windows will give you some idea of the beautiful things to be seen within, and it's a treat that you cannot afford to miss. The grandeur of the display has never been outdone in this city and we doubt if there is much to surpass it in New England. It is on the second floor and has almost a glass slide in Palmer street. Added to the light from the long line of windows in that street is the light from another row of windows in Merrimack street and this same light is generous with it in the cloak and suit department on the same floor.

It would require one versed to the letter in the millinery art to describe the wondrous beauty of the hats displayed at Gilbride's millinery parlors. Some hats are so wonderful in their construction as to be a bit vulgar, but every hat at Gilbride's has a touch of refinement. The department is in charge of Mrs. Mary Dunlap Leighton, and she is assisted by bright, obliging and capable young women. All the fall colorings in beautiful velvets, velvets and many other blends that are exceptionally pretty, are found there. The royal purple is very much in evidence and it makes a very pretty trimming. The high narrow hat, which has become a favorite with many, will not entirely displace the picture hat of fact, with its ample brim and generous curves. Velvet is the material that will be popularly used for fall and winter hats. French crepe is now as a material for hat facings and affords a delightfully soft and becoming background for the face. The line of plumes is more extensive than ever, and the two-tone ribbons, which are being used in many of the hats, are found in varied effect at this store. Hair ornaments are also shown in varied assortment, and a fine line of velvet hats in soft felt and in all colors, with purple the favorite, are to be seen. In the general color schemes in trimming "bridget" green is looked upon with favor by many.

Hats of all kinds are shown, from the medium priced combinations, up to the very best and costliest made. In coats, frocks and neckties, one can find the texture from the current in a reasonable priced article, up to the best of Hudson bay seal. Black fox, mink, beaver and squirrel are found in all styles. The pillow muffs and long neck pieces are specialized.

The very latest line of coats is also shown. The autumn coat, for street wear, of reversible make, in all colors, more especially brown and blue, is sure to become popular. Some have the sailor collar effect and others carry the hood. The polo coats, long, loose and boxy, with negligee effect, in grays and blues, promise to continue in favor and the line to be found here is unexcelled.

In the suit department a most extensive line can be found on display. The Scotch and German mixtures seem to predominate. The coming season would indicate the departure of the famous "hobble skirt" for the coming styles in suits are inclined to give more room to the wearer. The Norfolk jacket, in a mannish effect, is another of the new things for the season.

In ladies' gowns the idea of the fashion makers seem to draw away from the "hobble effect" which predominated in the seasons past. They now show an extensive line of the very latest creations are shown, all with the empire effect. The kimono sleeves are still in vogue.

The ladies' and misses' department has a large assortment of the newest creations for fall wear and the children's department also shows an excellent line of coats in plush, velvet and other popular makes. There is also a fine line of junior coats, for girls from 15 to 17 years of age.

There are two departments in the basement, the domestic and upholstery and housekeeping departments, and they are well stocked with goods. If they weren't they wouldn't be connected with the Gilbride store. In these departments are shown curtains of various makes and prices, including the Arabian, lace, Brussels, Irish point, French renaissance, Muris, Antioch and many others. There is also a large line of rugs, from 38 cents up to $40. Rugs of the latest patterns, floor coverings, beds of all kinds, oil cloths, draperies, etc.

In the dress goods department may be found all of the latest foreign and domestic products in the newest and most fashionable styles. There is also an extensive showing of ladies' undergarments, gloves, and silk hosiery. Women's neckwear and ribbons and a varied assortment of dress trimmings are also included in the list. Other displays include silk, lace and tailored shirts, waists, including the new shirt waist, turtlenecks, velvet bags, and silk bags, all of which are very attractive.

ROBERT S. LOVETT

The Man Who Leads in Opposing Strike

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A strike of 35,000 members of the Federated Shop Employees of the Harriman railroads is considered to be a question of hours. Following a reply from Vice President Julius Kruttschnitt of the Union Pacific cutting off negotiations with the leaders of the federations, it was said three of the five union heads, including the mechanists, hitherto the chief restraining force, were agreed to call a strike. The roads are reported to be well prepared to withstand a prolonged strike, Unionists say they have been employing men in all the centers of population for months and have a long list of men ready to take their places. Dispatches from California state that most of the big railroad shops there are enclosed by fences that will serve as stockades and insure protection to laborers. Judge Robert Scott Lovett, chairman of the executive boards of both the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific railroads, is the chief executive authority of the Harriman roads and is directing the

CAUSED A PANIC

MAN ENTERED CHURCH AND FLOURISHED REVOLVER

PITTSBURGH, Conn., Sept. 30.—Walking silently up the aisle of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, which was filled with women and children attending mass, William Toomey, a farm hand, yesterday flourished a revolver and threw the worshippers into a panic. While they rushed for the exits, the priest, Fr. Vandenberg, slipped out of a rear door and notified the police. By the time the latter arrived, Toomey had cleared the church and had disappeared. He was later arrested, but the revolver was not found. During the whole of his proceedings, he did not utter a word.

Toomey is about 45 years old. He will be examined today as to his sanity.

ABSORPTION PROCESS MAKES FACES YOUNG

(From The Home Maker)

Success has at last come to scientists who for years have sought some effective method of removing the outer facial skin in cases of unsightly complexion, which would be both painless and entirely non-injurious. The new process is so simple, the means so ordinary, so inexpensive, the wonder is that no one had discovered the same long ago.

It has been amply demonstrated that common mercurized wax, to be had at any drug store, completely removes, by gentle absorption, all the withered, lifeless cuticle, showing the youthful, rose-like skin underneath. The mercurized wax is applied at night—like cold cream, but not rubbed in—and washed off in the morning. The absorption also cleanses clogged pores, increasing the skin's breathing capacity and capillary circulation, preserving the tone, color and natural beauty of the new skin.

SEVERE CASE OF FLAT FOOT PREVENTED WITH GROUND GRIPPERS

In flat foot the arch has fallen and rests on the ground. The support of motion is lost. Policemen, waiters, nurses, dancers, who are on their feet continually, are subject to flat foot. Ground Grippers shoes strengthen the arch mechanically—and prevent flat foot.

GIRL WAS SHOT DEAD

Youth Did Not Know Gun Was Loaded

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Miss Hazel E. Stevenson, aged 18, of Miller's Falls, N. H., was shot through the head and instantly killed yesterday by a .45-caliber bullet from a hunting rifle held by Charles Wetherbee, aged 18, at the latter's home in North Lincoln, where Miss Stevenson and her mother were visitors.

The shooting was accidental. It was another added to the long list of "didn't-know-it-was-loaded" tragedies. No charge will be preferred against the boy, who was entirely exonerated by the testimony of the dead girl's mother.

Wetherbee is the son of Mrs. Henry Butcher of State road. Mrs. Butcher used to be a neighbor of Mrs. Stevenson in Miller's Falls, N. H., and Hazel Stevenson and Charles Wetherbee were schoolmates there.

The girl and boy were fooling in the kitchen. Charles suddenly ran upstairs to an upper hall and got his father's heavy hunting rifle. Returning to the dining room, with a grin he exclaimed:

"Now I'll make you quit teasing me, Hazel."

"You don't dare shoot me, Charles," said the girl with flushed cheeks.

"I don't," replied Wetherbee, and laughingly pressed the trigger. A deafening report followed and Hazel fell dead on the floor.

The large projectile had entered her mouth, passed through her head and tore a hole in the side of the house. Mrs. Stevenson, mother of the girl, who had been a witness of the affair, while reclining on the sofa, had a narrow escape.

Medical Examiner Watcott was summoned. Learning the details he took the boy to the Concord court in his automobile and explained the case to Judge Prescott Hayes, who asked Constable J. L. Ladd to thoroughly investigate it.

Constable Ladd drove the boy back to his home and interviewed both mothers.

Mrs. Stevenson satisfied him that it was purely accidental, and the boy was not arrested.

Young Wetherbee attended the Concord high school up to last year and was prominent as a baseball player. He now works on a farm and is a member of Company I, 6th regiment, M. V. M.

U. S. BATTLESHIPS

Hereafter Will be Built by Contract

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Advocates of the building of battleships in American navy yards will be dealt a staggering blow when Secretary Meyer submits to congress at its next session figures showing the comparative cost of construction of the dreadnoughts Florida and Utah. The former is just being completed at the New York navy yard and it is believed that when all of the details are at hand it will show that the vessel cost almost 25 per cent more than her sister ship, the Utah, built by the New York Shipbuilding Co., at Camden, N. J. It is believed that this fact will restrain the navy department from undertaking any more ship construction at the navy yards other than perhaps one vessel in each of two yards, which will serve to give employment to a small number of expert mechanics who might be kept available for an emergency.

JAIL SENTENCE

MEN WHO KILLED SEWOLLO GIVEN A YEAR EACH

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Pleas of guilty of manslaughter were accepted by District Attorney Higgins yesterday in the cases of Pasquale De George and Nicola Salerno De George and Nicola Salerno of Watertown, who were charged with murder in the second degree for killing Dominic Sewollo at Watertown, March 18. Judge McLaughlin sentenced each to serve one year in the house of correction and to pay a fine of $50.

The district attorney said that both defendants already had served six months in jail, and that the evidence showed that Sewollo had provoked the quarrel which led to his death.

THE SMOKE TEST

WAS WON BY THE DESTROYER AMMEN

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 30.—In a smoke test yesterday the torpedo boat destroyer Ammen, commanded by Lieut. M. K. Tansing, ran for four hours, much of the time at full speed, with smoke visible but eleven minutes. The destroyers Trippe and Walke, which participated in the test, showed smoke for a much greater period.

The three destroyers were out for their annual tests and although weather conditions were very unfavorable, the thirty-mile race and the sea running high, all made good showings. In the two-hour full speed test all three exceeded contract speed, and this with the waves dashing over them and the going unusually bad.

The contract speed of the boats was 20½ knots. The Trippe made 22.2-10, the Ammen 20.8-13, and the Walke 20.9-10 yesterday. The Trippe was under command of Lieut. Frank Berrian, and the Walke of Lieut. Charles T. Trein.

YOM KIPPUR

THE JEWISH DAY OF ATONEMENT BEGINS TOMORROW

The day of atonement, or Yom Kippur, regarded as the most sacred of all the Jewish holidays, begins at sunset tomorrow night and terminates Monday night at the same time.

Yom Kippur means that the faithful abstain from either food or drink. Many of the devout spend the entire period within the synagogues. The day of atonement is the tenth of the penitential days which began with the celebration of the new year.

Next week is Quarter Week at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

MISERY FROM UPSET STOMACH AND DYSPESIA WILL VANISH.

If what you just ate is searing on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour and undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

Bloodine costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure the worst case of dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Get a bottle of Bloodine now and eat what you like the next meal and then take a teaspoonful of Bloodine to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides it makes you go to the table with a hearty, healthy appetite; but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Bloodine cures, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid prescription, too, if you ever have indigestion or gastritis, or any other stomach misery, take Bloodine. Mail orders will be filled by the Bloodine Corporation, Boston, Mass.

ST. PETER'S MISSION

The Attendance of Men at Services is Unusually Large

The closing exercises of the men's mission being conducted by the Augustinian Fathers at St. Peter's church, will take place tomorrow and promise to be unusually impressive. On account of the great crowd of men who have participated in the services of the mission, both morning and evening, the missionaries have decided to hold the closing exercises in two sections tomorrow. Therefore the final ceremonies for the unmarried men will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, while the evening service will be given over to the married men of the parish. The exercises will consist of rosary, sermon and benediction of the blessed sacrament. The renewal of the baptismal vows, during which all present will hold lighted candles, will also be a part of the ceremonies, and it promises to be a scene of splendor. The papal benediction will also be given. The order of exercises will be the same as on previous evenings.

There will be no services tonight, the time being given over to the hearing of confessions. A word might be said relative to the attendance at communion. It is doubtful, if ever in the history of the parish, has there been such a large number of communicants, particularly at the 5 o'clock mass. This fact alone immensely pleases the mission fathers and the priests of the church.

Last evening, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the attendance of men in both churches was especially fine. Rev. Fr. O'Mahoney, O. S. A., spoke to the unmarried men in the basement and before the sermon he announced the order of exercises for the closing of the mission. He referred to the great work the Holy Name societies are doing in the suppression of profanity and blasphemy and urged the men not identified therewith to

CUPPING THE ELEPHANT

TURCO-ITALIAN WAR

Continued

The government has asked the United States to take charge of the interests of Ottoman subjects in Italy.

The German ambassador to Turkey, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, notified the Porte this morning that Germany had assumed the protection of Italian subjects and interests in Turkey. The Italians in Turkey number 50,000.

It was reported early today that an Italian warship had gone ashore near Tripoli. Later accounts state that the crew of the Turkish torpedo boat destroyer which was sunk in the harbor of Prevesa in Ephesus by an Italian cruiser yesterday escaped.

The war office announces measures to make the rule of martial law more severe because of the public excitement. Public meetings and alarmist publications are prohibited, and any movement calculated to endanger public order will be immediately suppressed by force of arms. Sufficient troops have been stationed in convenient places to meet emergencies.

The Committee of Union and Progress published the following proclamation:

"Italy at length has unmasked her hostile designs on Tripoli. The Italian charge has handed a note to the Porte announcing the occupation of Tripoli province yesterday. The Ottoman nation professes honor to life and indignantly repels the Italian audacity.

"There will be war between the two countries and our nation will employ every means against the enemy. Tripoli will courageously defend itself. The Ottoman government will expell all Italians from Turkey and Italian schools and business houses will be closed.

"Our committee will employ all its influence to cause these measures to be applied in a calm spirit toward the nation which has trodden under foot our most sacred rights. We beg the population to remain tranquil and leave to the government the duty of acting against the Italians, thus demonstrating that Ottomans are more civilized and equitable than Italians who drove their government to the present action.

"We invite all Turks to be united at this critical moment."

The principal newspapers use language of unmeasured violence against the Italians while the common people are advised to show their patriotism by the strictest boycott of Italian products and at the same time to treat the Italians in Turkey as guests.

The government has decided to strengthen its military forces on the Greek and Montenegrin frontiers.

35,000 TROOPS

GENERAL CANEVA HAS A STRONG FORCE

CHIASO, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—Today's advices from Italy state that the exact number of the forces of occupation under General Caneva is still kept a secret officially but it is known that they comprise eight regiments of infantry and two regiments of sharpshooters, amounting altogether to 25,000 men, besides 1,000 cavalry, coast, field and fort and mountain artillery with the addition of complementary bodies, making a grand total of more than 35,000. To the army are attached Red Cross divisions.

THE CRETANS

SEND NOTICE THEY WANT TO BE ANNEXED TO GREECE

CHIASO, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—The Cretans notified their representatives in Italy today that they did not intend to permit the opportunity afforded by the Tripoli affair to pass without obtaining their long desired annexation to Greece.

SUSPECTED SPIES

WERE CAPTURED BY THE ITALIANS TODAY

CHIASO, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—A wireless message received in Italy from Rear Admiral Aubrey, in command at Tripoli, expresses the hope that the occupation of the Tripoli coast will be practically accomplished tonight. The cruisers blockading Tripoli today cap-

DUKE OF ABRUZZI

SENDS A REPORT OF THE ENGAGEMENT

ROME, Sept. 30.—Vice Admiral, the duke of the Abruzzi, has sent to the ministry of marine the following telegram:

"We arrived this morning before Prevesa and established a cruising station. At 2 o'clock the commanders were advised by wireless that two Turkish torpedo boats had successfully left the harbor. We gave chase and after an exchange of gun fire one of the boats ran ashore disabled and burning. The other regained Prevesa. I have celebrated congratulations to the commander upon this action."

The vice admiral was sent to Prevesa owing to the information received that Turkish torpedo boats had assembled there with the evident aim of running into the Adriatic to attack Italian merchant ships, annoying open ports and interfering with transports carrying Italian troops.

Though undated, the message from the duke was evidently sent yesterday and the "three o'clock" mentioned was undoubtedly 3 p. m. yesterday, which would agree with the earlier news despatches of that action.

BRITISH GOV'T

RECALLS OFFICERS SERVING WITH TURKISH FLEET

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The British government has recalled Admiral Williams and six other officers serving with the Turkish fleet but some anxiety is felt lest any British officer aboard the Turkish ships should be involved in the fighting.

The Italian ambassador today gave the foreign office assurances of the protection of British subjects in the sphere of hostilities. The Maltese colony in Tripoli is second only to the Italian in numbers and commercial investments. Many Italians eligible for military service visited the consulate here today. The Italian consul told them that probably their services would not be required.

ITALIAN ATTACK

SAID TO HAVE BEEN MADE BEFORE ULTIMATUM EXPIRED

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—It is reported from Turkish sources that the Italian attack at Prevesa upon the Turkish torpedo boat destroyers was made 90 minutes before the expiration of the ultimatum.

Specialists from Athens state that the Turks were trying to join four other destroyers at Gamaritz. Cannoonading was heard of Gamaritz last night, whence it was concluded that the Italians had attacked the other torpedo boat destroyers there and blockaded that port.

The damaged destroyer at Prevesa was stripped of her guns and ammunition by the Turks to prevent capture by the Italians.

TURKISH GOV'T

WILL DEFEND TRIPOLI IT IS NOW BELIEVED

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—The newspapers announced tonight that the minister of war Mahmud Shefiket Pasha has telegraphed to the Turkish commandant at Tripoli to defend that territory with the utmost energy and to appeal to the religion of the people. It is probable that the Italian declaration of war and the attack on the Turkish torpedoboat destroyers at Prevesa has decided the Turkish government to reverse its decision not to defend Tripoli.

THE DIPLOMATS

THINK THE WAR WILL NOT BE OF LONG DURATION

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—If all goes well Italy will not wait the occupation of the whole of Tripoli before making overtures to Turkey but will act as soon as the coast towns are in her possession. The conquest of the interior, it is thought, would require decades.

It was stated at the foreign office this afternoon that there was every hope of success in confining hostilities to Italy and Turkey and preventing an outbreak in the Balkans. Negotiations for joint action by the powers, however, are still in a preliminary stage. The danger point is Greece. The report from Vienna that Turkey has demanded that Greece proclaim her disinterestedness in the island is believed at the German foreign office to be untrue but Athens understands that any attempt to seize this opportunity to raise the Cretan question would be the signal for a Turkish mobilization in Thessaly.

Germany, at the request of the Porte has undertaken the protection of Ottoman subjects in Italy, as it has assumed the safeguarding of Italians in Turkey. It is officially explained that this move is in accord with the usual procedure and does not imply that Germany will oppose the expulsion of Italians.

There is an impression in diplomatic circles that the war will be brief. The big banks profess to have information that it is now virtually over. The truth of this depends on the assumption that Turkey will submit after a show of opposition to the loss of Tripoli and will not embark upon a program of reprisals against Italian subjects and Italian commerce.

Italy plans, it is learned authoritatively, to re-open negotiations with Turkey as soon as the occupation of Tripoli is assured, counting on reported orders from Constantinople to the local authorities at Tripoli not to resist the landing and using channels of communication with the enemy. If there is no opposition to her program Italy will content herself in Tripoli with a status similar to that of England in Egypt. Otherwise the annexation of Tripoli will follow. Rigorous measures against Turkish ports are contemplated if the Turks execute their threat to expel Italians and seize their property in Turkey though the possibility of the powers interfering against a bombardment and seizure of ports in European and Asiatic Turkey is admitted.

TAFT'S IOWA TRIP

President Says It Was Most Pleasant One

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 30.—President Taft swung back into Missouri again today to become the guest of the Missouri state fair. In discussing his trip through Iowa, the president declared his reception was most cordial and pleasing.

"I am glad I went to Iowa," he said. "I had no fear that my reception would not be cordial. However, some had suggested otherwise, not Iowans. Perhaps the wish was father to the thought. At any rate, I wish to testify my gratitude to the governor, to the state officers to the congressmen of Iowa and to the senators for their very cordial reception of me without regard to the question whether they agreed with me in politics or not. I want to say the same thing about the people who turned out, I believe they have learned something that I had in my heart to tell them and I guess it has not done them any harm."

The president had an opportunity today to place a few holes of golf with Governor Hadley, the first game he has had since he left Beverly. He had luncheon with Governor Hadley and the state board of agriculture and dinner at the Country club.

Tonight the president leaves for Omaha and the far west. As the president's train pulled into the state fair grounds he was met by an aviator flying a biplane, who led the way.

After breakfast at the Country club, President Taft, with Governor Hadley by his side, was driven about Sedalia. He then returned to the fair grounds, entering the auditorium of the pavilion Mr. Taft faced an audience of several thousand persons. Governor Hadley received an ovation when he rose to introduce the president as "a gentleman of rare ability and ability."

Mr. Taft spoke at some length on the economies effected in the running of the government.

The president was vigorously applauded when he announced that he would not be frightened from the use of the veto when he deemed it imperative.

THE LUMBER TRUST

Files an Answer to the Government's Suit

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The answer of the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers Association and the other defendants in the government's suit for the dissolution of the lumber trust, complained of as an illegal combination in restraint of interstate trade and commerce, was filed today in the circuit court. The defendants deny that they now are or ever have been engaged in the conspiracy described in federal District Attorney Wise's petition or that they participated in any acts excepting such as were lawful and proper.

BANK TREASURER

To Aid in Straightening Out Affairs

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—George Lucas, who was treasurer of the City Savings bank, was before the police court today and at the request of State Bank Commissioner Lippitt was held without bail until Thursday with the understanding that he would assist the bank officers in straightening out the books. The alleged regulations are about $15,000.

CHEMICAL BLEACHING

Story Concerning One of the Founders of Lowell Carpet Co.

The following interesting story of chemical bleaching is from the Boston Herald, and rendered the passage across the Atlantic safe. James Wright sent for his wife and three sons, Peter, Alexander and John, who came to Boston in 1815, and he went from points on which is now almost forgotten history, and having to do with Lowell.

As the published accounts attribute the establishment of chemical bleaching in this country as long after the correct dates and by different persons the following is submitted as a record of the historical facts connected with the introduction of chemical bleaching into this country. It was one of the fortunes of war through the capture of a British sailing vessel bound for Philadelphia, during the war of 1812 by an American privateer, named the Yankee, under the command by Captain James Lockwood of Rhode Island. Two of the passengers from Renfrewshire, Scotland, on the captured vessel were Duncan and Daniel Wright, brothers, and when the captain of the privateer learned their occupation and that they were bleachers and dyers and acquainted with chemical bleaching, he said that they were just the people wanted in this country as all the dyeing was done in kitchens and the bleaching on the grass. He took them ashore at Bristol, R. I., and secured work for them at the Arkwright factory in Dighton, Mass., in which he was interested.

Duncan Wright, the elder of the two brothers, was born in Balmachre, Argyleshire, Scotland in 1768, and died at Teckisbury, Mass., January 23, 1836. He learned the trade of chemical bleaching in his native town and lived afterwards at Arkleside near Paisley, Scotland.

When the peace of Ghent closed the war of 1812, after three years' duration and rendered the passage across the Atlantic safe, James Wright sent for his wife and three sons, Peter, Alexander and John, who came to Boston in 1815, and he went from points on which is now almost forgotten history, and having to do with Lowell.

THE FRENCH REPLY

On Moroccan Question Considered by Cabinet

PARIS, Sept. 30.—France's rejoinder to the latest German despatch in the negotiations relative to the Moroccan question was considered by the members of the cabinet today. The ministry approved the instructions drawn up by Foreign Minister DeSelves to the French ambassador at Berlin, M. Cambon, embodying the government's comments regarding the German note and also approved the editing of the proposed agreement.

A semi-official note issued this afternoon says that the cabinet council in a great spirit of conciliation accepted certain modifications proposed by Germany and upon other propositions maintained the French point of view. The divergencies relate principally to the question of consular jurisdiction, a disagreement regarding which, however, appears to be imminent.

SENTENCED TO JAIL

Man Found Guilty of Larceny

Entered an Appeal

This morning's session of the police court, presided over by Judge J. J. Conley, resulted in a long drawn out trial. In several cases it was necessary to use interpreters.

Four Months in Jail

George Van Valkenburg was charged with the larceny of 48 pounds of leather, valued at $30, from the premises of David Ziskind. It was alleged that the defendant visited Mr. Ziskind's place of business a week ago Thursday and removed the leather from the premises and afterwards tried to sell it. At the conclusion of the case Van Valkenburg was found guilty and sentenced to four months in jail. He entered an appeal and was held under $300 bonds for his appearance before the superior court.

Lieut. Martin Maher was the first witness called and he testified to the arrest of the defendant in Middlesex street. Witness said he was passing through Middlesex street when he saw the defendant and another man take a bag off a wagon and carry it into a store. As a result of an investigation he said that there was leather in the bag and learned that the men were trying to sell it for $4. The lieutenant questioned Van Valkenburg as to where he got the leather and the latter said that he got it in Vermont about four years ago. Witness said that Major Noyes and David Ziskind had reported the loss of leather and later Ziskind had identified the leather as belonging to him.

Major Edward J. Noyes, detective for the local corporations, said he had been looking for some leather that had been reported as lost and testified relative to a conversation which he had with the defendant. The defendant, witness said, claimed that he had brought the leather from "the old homestead" in Vermont.

Harry Bernstein, who conducts a second hand store in Middlesex street, testified that the defendant entered his store and tried to sell the leather for $4.

David Ziskind, the man who claimed to own the leather, said that he had purchased the material with some pulleys from the Bigelow Carpet Co. and allowed it to remain in the yard adjoining his office. On September 24 he found that the leather had been stripped from the pulleys and immediately notified the police. When the leather was produced the witness identified it as the leather taken from his place of business.

The defendant testifying in his own behalf said he got the leather at "my old homestead" in Vermont about four years ago and when he moved to this city he brought it with him.

Deputy Downey, who prosecuted the case, produced a picture which was taken from the rogues' gallery and asked the defendant if it was a likeness of him. The defendant did not think that it was a likeness of him. He was questioned for half an hour but the court told him that he would have to answer the question. Van Valkenburg then admitted that in June, 1909, he was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory after being found guilty of larceny from the person.

The defendant was ordered to serve four months in jail but appealed.

Stole Lead and Copper

James H. Heenan and Bernard Refuse were arraigned on complaints charging them with having stolen 12 pounds of lead, the property of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. yesterday. Both entered pleas of not guilty. Heenan is charged with the larceny of 21 pounds of copper, the property of the Hamilton corporation, was taken up, Refuse and McCarthy pleaded guilty to the complaint but Gifford entered a plea of not guilty.

Charles E. Robertson, an inspector for the company which has charge of the erection of the new Hamilton building, said that 30 feet of copper had been ripped off the top of the water wheel of the old mill. He did not know who took the copper but identified the copper produced in court as that which had been on the corporation premises.

Patrolman Lennon testified to being in a store in the vicinity of Fayette street when he heard two men remark that they had some copper to sell. The witness said that he thought Gifford was one of the men, but was not positive. Gifford asked if he would arrest that Gifford was there, he answered in the negative.

Major E. J. Noyes informed the court that he was of the opinion that Gifford, who is sub-foreman, was not one of the men who stole the copper.

Placed on Probation

James J. Lannon, who was tried before Judge Hadley in police court yesterday on a complaint charging him with breaking and entering a camp in Billerica and stealing tools, an apparel and other articles, was placed on probation for one year. It appears that Lannon was accompanied by a man named O'Hara, when the break was made and it is alleged that O'Hara committed the larceny, pawned the majority of the tools and made his escape. While Judge Hadley said that Lannon was guilty in entering the place, he thought, owing to his age, that it would be better to place him on probation.

CASHIER GAMBIER

INTIMATES HE WILL SUE "KISS-LESS BRIDE"

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Edward Victor Gambier, cashier of the Merchants' Exchange bank and husband of Edith Russell Gambier, "the kissless bride," intimated yesterday in the supreme court, before Judge Pondition, that he may sue for an abductor's divorce. He asked permission to discontinue his amendment.

Mr. Gambier declared in his petition to the court that he had been "advised of sufficient evidence" for a divorce, but his lawyer qualified this statement by saying to the court, "Mr. Gambier is a citizen and resident of New Jersey, and there are several grounds for divorce there. Abandonment is one ground, and there is another ground."

"That is another insult to this little woman," Augustus Van Wyck, Mrs. Gambier's counsel, said. "I can have no possible bearing on the motion Mr. Gambier now makes. I ask that the paragraph about divorce be stricken from the evidence."

Gambier, who is 20 years older than his wife, married her in April, 1904. They separated after three years of married life and she sued for a separation. Gambier defended the action, claiming that his wife was so invincibly modest that she only allowed him to kiss her once or twice during the honeymoon and then he had to stand at a distance and speak at her cheek. He asked to have the marriage annulled. Justice Pondition denied Mrs. Gambier's plea for a separation.

THE LOCAL MILLS

A Slight Decline in the Price of Stocks

The following from the American Wool and Cotton Reporter of Sept. 28, and having to do with manufacturing shares is of local interest inasmuch as local mills are mentioned:

The condition of the market has changed but little since last week. On the whole, things appear somewhat brighter. There are always pessimists, who declare that slight drops in the stock sub at auction indicate that conditions are looking still more gloomy. There is no reason for this viewpoint. The textile business has suffered less in textile mills have kept remarkably firm and will fair to become stronger every day. For many weeks old lots of securities will undoubtedly change hands at a sacrifice, and the reason for this has already been explained. The investor who is speculating in securities of local mills, however, has been meeting the most in some way cover himself. If he is fortunate enough to possess stock in some of the textile mills, he has attempted to sell this at the low figure of one or two cents. At times when the stock market is in a panic, as at present, many investors are obliged to part with their good securities, not because they wish to sell, but because they must have money to cover themselves.

The list of declines at this week's auction was again large. While the sales include but four textile mills, one share of American Wool changed hands at $14.50, the last public sale was made at $17.00. Three shares of the Lowell Mfg. company brought $11.00, which was the same figure brought last week. Thirty shares of Knickerbocker Steam Cotton company were sold at $14.00, which was a decline of two points, and thirty shares of Massachusetts Cotton Mills changed hands at $14.00, a decline of five and one-half points. To be sure, all the sales at this week's auction, with the exception of Knickerbocker Steam Cotton company, showed a slight decline, but this decline is of no consequence.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

HENRY IV STEALS THRONE

SEPT. 28—Richard II of England was locked up in the tower of London because all his friends had gone back on him including the army. On the 30th of September 1399 he agreed to turn the throne over to his cousin Henry of Bolingbroke if they would let him out. The following day the "dethroning" ceremony started. While this procedure was going on, Henry of Bolingbroke, duke of Hereford, remained seated in his usual place near the throne, which was empty, and covered with cloth of gold. As soon as the commission had pronounced the sentence of deposition he arose, approached the throne, and having solemnly crossed himself, said: "In the name of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, I, Henry of Lancaster, challenge this realm of England, because I am descended by right line of blood from the good lord King Henry III, and through that right, that God of his grace hath sent me, with help of my kin and of my friends, to recover it, and which realm was in point to be undone for default of government and undoing of the good laws." And Henry IV made good.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

One of the most enjoyable musical comedies that has been seen in this city for years is "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," which appeared at the Opera House last night and this afternoon, and will be given again tonight. The attendance last night was not large, owing to the inclemency of the weather, but those who braved the storm were well repaid for their trouble. It was practically a case of laugh from the first act until the close of the show.

The scenery was beautiful, the costumes and millinery worn by the women in the show of the latest design and the songs and their rendition by the large choruses grand.

The play is founded on the cartoons of George McManis, and the nature of the comedy is of a high order. The half is the alleged baby and one of the attractions in the show. He is called Knapp, who plays the part of Napoleon Newwied, and when he is not busy in that role he makes a rapid change to Major Knott Much with a silk tie.

The resemblance of the major and little Newwieds, the Newwieds' child, is what the plot is based on and, although it is not a heavy one, there are plenty of peculiar and laughable situations interspersed in the comedy.

Knapp is not the whole show, by any means, for Daniel E. Murphy, who takes the role of Adolph Nichols, a waiter, is amusing, to say the least, in the second act he occupies the stage almost every minute and his actions, conversation and singing are rich.

Many new and original songs are rendered during the course of the show.

The following is the cast of characters:

Ferdinand Newwied, Chas. A. Morgan
Napoleon Newwied, the baby, Earl Knapp
Major Knott Much, Earl Knapp
Tom Travers, Earl Knapp
Prof. August Nickel, Milton Dawson
Adolph Nichols, Daniel E. Murphy
Dr. I. Curran, George Averill
Mrs. Newwied, Olga Van Hatfield
Gwendolin, Louise Aubrey
Dolly Jolly, Billie Townsend
A Bear, John J. Nelson
Sergeant Dolly, Gus Stichele

The musical numbers are as follows:
"The King of Babyland" ... Ensemble
"Little Jack Hunter" ... Tom and Dolly
"Napoleon" ... Mr. and Mrs. Newwied and chorus.
"Slumber My Little Love" ... Mrs. Newwied
"Love Time" ... Tom, Violet, Rose and Chorus
"The Boogie Woogie" ... Dolly, and the Boogie Woogie Babies
Misses Hill, Carmen, Brenner, Moras, Grant, Murdoch, Sheldon, Davis.
"Baby's Gone" ... Ensemble
"Supper Out of Doors" ... Ensemble
"Every Baby is a Sweet Boy" ... Dora, Cora and Chorus
"An Operatic Solution" ... Adolph and Chorus
"My Sweetest Bride" ... Mrs. Newwied and Dolly
Assisted by Misses Corwell, Hansen, Crane, Morse, Tebbel, Vanecko, Switzer, Aldens
Misses Rice, Myers, Mingson, Lane, Gilbert, Abbott, Wilson, Swinger, Switzer Boys

"Mr. Jigger" ... Mr. Newwied, Rose, Violet, and Eight Pouter Pigeons
"Girls Who Want to Go Upon the Direct Importing Co." ... Adolph and Gwendolin
"Mammoth Film" ... Mrs. Newwied and Show Girls
"Can't You See I Love You?" ... Tom, Dolly and Chorus

Final.

So great a value has been placed upon the films which constitute the principal asset of Dante's "Inferno," that given at the Lowell Opera House for one week, commencing Monday, Oct. 21, with daily matinee. But a miniature fireproof safe has been devised to carry the subject.

After several months of negotiations, one of the largest insurance companies in America insured the picture for $10,000 provided, of course, that the film would be placed in a reliable fireproof vault each night after the performance.

Although the subject is the longest ever photographed in the history of motion pictures it is the most expensive production in lineal feet ever registered before a camera.

Alfred Ward of the Opera House is forced to go a substantial bond to protect the film from fire during the local engagement.

An asbestos and steel fireproof booth, together with a special type of moving picture machine, eliminates any possible danger of combustion.

week-end performances for the purpose of seeing once again the doctor and his marvelous exhibition with the high voltage electrical current. While the scientific worth of this act is sufficient to make it a feature, the funny plays which those who go from the audience to test the current, the doctor uses when he throws a cluster of sparks from his fists at them, and the gyrations which they go through after the shock strikes is laughable. The other acts on the bill are Harlan, Knight and company, in "The Chick Line," Mr. and Mrs. Allison, presenting "Anna from Minnesota," John Neff and Carrie Starr, "The Mad Musician" and the Telephone Girl, Roeder and Lester, acrobats; Emmett brothers, dancers and Harry Pantella and Viola Valerio, entertainers.

The regular Sunday concerts will be given tomorrow afternoon and evening. In addition to four vaudeville acts, will be shown five reels of the latest moving picture films of subjects produced by leading film firms of this and foreign countries.

Tickets for admission to the concerts tomorrow are 10 and 20 cents. The 20 cents tickets entitle the patron to any seat on the main floor or first balcony; the 10 cent tickets are for the second balcony. Tickets for the final performance of this week's bill, may be ordered in advance by telephone 25.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

If you held the deciding vote on a measure in the national senate at Washington, and your voting for this particular measure would mean much to your children, would you vote for that measure, or would you do as Senator Langdon does in "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which will be next week's offering of the Hathaway stock company at this theatre, vote against the bill and have your children turn against you and be scorned by your closest friend for your action? This is what comprises the plot of this famous drama of American politics by Hamilton Knives and Thomas A. Wise. Van, H. Langdon, a noted, jovial, good-natured, shrewd and sternly honest Mississippi, much against his wishes, is elected to the United States senate. Two places have been selected by a committee of the previous senate as proper sites for a naval base, Atacaula and the Gulf of Mexico. These interests, who are in a way responsible for Langdon's election, are given to understand by senators who are promoting the scheme, that Atacaula, where the interests are large land owners, is the place where the naval base will be established, providing the vote of Senator Langdon is assured.

The question concerning the naval base becomes a subject much discussed by both press and the public, and the newspapers with correspondents in Washington, close to the situation, begin to feature it in large type.

The time for the voting on the bill for the naval base arrives, and much stress is brought upon Senator Langdon, through his children, to try and ascertain just what stand he is to take. He refuses absolutely to listen to the pleas of his children requesting him to vote for the placing of the base at Atacaula instead of the Gulf of Mexico, because they have invested all their
